The whole United States gained its freedom in 1776. It took longer for the American girl to gain her freedom.

But she has it now, happy little girl that she is, if only she could appreciate her blessings and make the most of them.

She is free from the silly notion that refinement in a woman means weakness, "vapors, fainting away easily.

The girl of 1925 is free from the monotonous slavery of the spinning wheel, although luckily she isn't free from the cradle—at least, not all the time.

There is common sense in all things, and the little mother of today is entitled to feel that she has done her duty after she has rocked the cradle for four or five different children. ather, she doesn't rock it, that's out of date, and makes the baby dizzy.

The girl of today can run, jump, dance and play all the games—tennis, golf, baseball, basketball. She outswims and outdives her brother often. She rides a horse with one leg free on either side of the horse, not with two legs wrapped up in a velvet riding habit on one side of the horse.

Freedom is the motto of the girl of 1925. She pays no attention to the old fogy who would advise her to go back to the log cabin, the rocking chair, the spinning wheel, the downcast eyes, the squeezed waist, and all the rest of it.

And physical freedom is only a small part of it. The glorious part of being a girl at this end of the first quarter of the twentieth century is the mental freedom.

The great Napoleon said: "I open all careers to talent." But he only meant that he opened careers to men.

Now careers are open to women as well as men. Doctor, lawyer, merchant, prince, she can choose according to the old game of button.

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES AND OTHER GOOD ROADS ADVOCATES ENDORSE PROPOSED $950,000 BOND ISSUE TO BE SUBMITTED TO COUNTY VOTERS

The proposed $950,000 bond issue for road building in Columbiana county was endorsed by the various boards of township trustees and other good roads advocates at a meeting held in common pleas court room No. 2, Lisbon, Saturday.

As a result of this session, road meetings are to be held in every township in the county within the next few weeks for the purpose of uring support of the proposal.

The county-wide program, pledged by the commissioners, and which will link ever city, village and hamlet in the sub division with a good highway, proposes the construction of 72.88 miles of road. With the building of 21.36 miles of highway from money derived from the gasoline excise tax and other sources this will mean 94.24 miles of new roads within three years.

More than 150 men, including trustees and other representatives from each district, attended the session.

The purpose was to discuss the primary road system outlined by the commissioners, as well as the secondary program proposed by township trustees under the provision of the Green law.

Discuss Secondary Road System.

Trustees of adjoining townships will confer relative to the most plausible secondary program.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk was chairman of the meeting. At the opening of the session, each board of trustees was handed a small township road map. These maps were compared with large county maps prepared for the occasion. The trustees then designated upon their small maps roads of first and second importance. After further discussion, these maps are to be returned to the commissioners, signed by the trustees, and the roads designated are to be classed as a group to be improved under the provisions of the Green law.

This secondary road program is to be followed by the commissioners and the trustees with a plan to give rural communities additional outlets to improved roads and also to the roads that are to be built under the proposed bond issue.

Green Law is Explained.

Carl L. Van Voorhis of Mt. Vernon, field engineer of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, explained the provision of the Green law. The last legislature appropriated a million dollars to be used during two-year term among the 1,400 townships of the state. Under this law, the township trustees are to put in $500 per mile, which the county commissioners and the state will match. Where a township is unable to pay, the law provides that the commissioners may assume any part of the cost of the road.

When the trustees make application to the commissioners under the Green law for aid for road building, the commissioners, in turn, file the application with the state auditor. This money is then forwarded to the county auditor, and is placed to the credit of that particular road on the books of the county treasurer. The township trustees themselves do not spend the money.

The type of road to be built under the provisions is opitional with the trustees and the commissioners, it was explained by Van Voorhis.

Yellow Creek township is the first township in the county to apply for this class of state aid, and its secondary road system program will be filed with the commissioners within the next few weeks.

The entire morning session was taken up with the discussion of the provisions of the Green law and the outlining of a secondary road system.

L. M. Kyes Outlines Program.

At noon the trustees and other guests were entertained at dinner by the Pythian Sisters in the Knights of Pythias hall, the gathering being the first of the character ever held in the county.

L. M. Kayes f East Palestine opened the afternoon meeting with an explanation of the primary road program outlined by the commissioners.

They have worked out a general road system instead of patch-work," Kyes explained. "We cannot refuse the state and federal road aid that has been offered Codumbiana county. When you come to consider that two-thirds of the taxes collected in this county come from the cities and municipalities and only one-third from the rural sections, it is easy to see where the rural territory is going to benefit.

"This is the cheapest bond issue ever known in the history of Columbiana county. It is unlike any other You must understand that when we approve this bond issue at the polls, it does not mean that $950,000 bonds are to be sold immediately. The bonds will be sold when the contracts for the roads are awarded. This road program is going to attract the biggest contractors in the country. It will mean close bidding, and close bidding means the county will save in construction cost, and it may follow that it will not be necessary in time to issue the entire issue of $950,000. Perhaps only $900,000 will be needed to complete the program over the period of years The law provides that no bonds can be issued until the contract has been awarded, and then only at the cost of the contract.

"We owe the county commissioners our united support in this matter, and it is up to us to go back to our home districts and boost the road bond issue until the last vote is placed in the ballot box. Every township in the county is to benefit by this program. It is the greatest that has ever been designed or worked out, and Columbiana county will be enriched greatly after the entire system has been completed, and every part of the county connected by an improved road."

Trustees Laud Plan.

"It's the best program ever developed," was the comment of Lawrence H. Copeland of Millport, "and I for one want to see it go through."

"I'm only sorry that all farmers in the county could not have heard the address of Mr. Kyes," said Fred George of Madison township. "I want to see good roads all over this county. I know what good roads means to the farmer."

"No fair minded person could oppose this road bond proposition," S. M. Van Blaricorm of Perry township said. "The low tax rate that this $950,000 bond issue will carry is as simple as A, B, C. I want to see the bond issue go over big."

"What Mr. Kyes said meets with my approval and also the approval of the people of Middleton township."

McLain, according to Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, told Captain Conley and Desk Sergeant Toland that his passenger shot him.

"Never mind; get a doctor," it is claimed, was the prisoner's answer, when police asked what caused the shooting.

McLain was removed to the hospital in the Miller ambulance, while Anderson was taken to jail in a private automobile driven by City Jail Turnkey W. A. Cline.

Questioned Sunday by his counsel, Anderson is said to have replied:

Shooting Follows Taxicab Call.

According to Albert McLain, owner of the McLain Yellow Cab agency, the fatal shooting followed a call for a taxicab which he received over the telephone at 10:50 o'clock Saturday night.

DETAIN BOY AS COURT WITNESS

William Richards to Testify in Hold-up Trial.

William Richards, 18 years old, of 1014 St. Clair avenue, was held by Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, Saturday, as a material witness against Ralph Eugene Coleman, Oak street, who was indicted at the last term of the grand jury for the robbery of the Park Way filling station, Park way and Dixonville roads.

Richards, who has been sought by the police since the arrest of young Coleman at Belpre about two weeks ago, was apprehended at a local pottery. He was taken to Lisbon, Sunday, awaiting Coleman's trial, which is scheduled for tomorrow. Police are searching for a third man, who is believed to know something of the holdup.

Police say that Coleman, Richards and the third suspect, who has not yet been located, are friends. Richards, it is claimed, was not implicated in the filling station robbery which occurred last May 16.

Richards is to be detained pending a police investigation.

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES AND OTHER GOOD ROADS ADVOCATES ENDORSE PROPOSED $950,000 BOND ISSUE TO BE SUBMITTED TO COUNTY VOTERS

The proposed $950,000 bond issue for road building in Columbiana county was endorsed by the various boards of township trustees and other good roads advocates at a meeting held in common pleas court room No. 2, Lisbon, Saturday.

As a result of this session, road meetings are to be held in every township in the county within the next few weeks for the purpose of uring support of the proposal.

The county-wide program, pledged by the commissioners, and which will link ever city, village and hamlet in the sub division with a good highway, proposes the construction of 72.88 miles of road. With the building of 21.36 miles of highway from money derived from the gasoline excise tax and other sources this will mean 94.24 miles of new roads within three years.

More than 150 men, including trustees and other representatives from each district, attended the session.

The purpose was to discuss the primary road system outlined by the commissioners, as well as the secondary program proposed by township trustees under the provision of the Green law.

Discuss Secondary Road System.

Trustees of adjoining townships will confer relative to the most plausible secondary program.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk was chairman of the meeting. At the opening of the session, each board of trustees was handed a small township road map. These maps were compared with large county maps prepared for the occasion. The trustees then designated upon their small maps roads of first and second importance. After further discussion, these maps are to be returned to the commissioners, signed by the trustees, and the roads designated are to be classed as a group to be improved under the provisions of the Green law.

This secondary road program is to be followed by the commissioners and the trustees with a plan to give rural communities additional outlets to improved roads and also to the roads that are to be built under the proposed bond issue.

Green Law is Explained.

Carl L. Van Voorhis of Mt. Vernon, field engineer of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, explained the provision of the Green law. The last legislature appropriated a million dollars to be used during two-year term among the 1,400 townships of the state. Under this law, the township trustees are to put in $500 per mile, which the county commissioners and the state will match. Where a township is unable to pay, the law provides that the commissioners may assume any part of the cost of the road.

When the trustees make application to the commissioners under the Green law for aid for road building, the commissioners, in turn, file the application with the state auditor. This money is then forwarded to the county auditor, and is placed to the credit of that particular road on the books of the county treasurer. The township trustees themselves do not spend the money.

The type of road to be built under the provisions is optional with the trustees and the commissioners, it was explained by Van Voorhis.

Yellow Creek township is the first township in the county to apply for this class of state aid, and its secondary road system program will be filed with the commissioners within the next few weeks.

The entire morning session was taken up with the discussion of the provisions of the Green law and the outlining of a secondary road system.

L. M. Kyes Outlines Program.

At noon, the trustees and other guests were entertained at dinner by the Pythian Sisters in the Knights of Pythias hall, the gathering being the first of the character ever held in the county.

L. M. Kayes f East Palestine opened the afternoon meeting with an explanation of the primary road program outlined by the commissioners.

They have worked out a general road system instead of patch-work," Kyes explained. "We cannot refuse the state and federal road aid that has been offered Codumbiana county. When you come to consider that two-thirds of the taxes collected in this county come from the cities and municipalities and only one-third from the rural sections, it is easy to see where the rural territory is going to benefit.

"This is the cheapest bond issue ever known in the history of Columbiana county. It is unlike any other You must understand that when we approve this bond issue at the polls, it does not mean that $950,000 bonds are to be sold immediately. The bonds will be sold when the contracts for the roads are awarded. This road program is going to attract the biggest contractors in the country. It will mean close bidding, and close bidding means the county will save in construction cost, and it may follow that it will not be necessary in time to issue the entire issue of $950,000. Perhaps only $900,000 will be needed to complete the program over the period of years The law provides that no bonds can be issued until the contract has been awarded, and then only at the cost of the contract.

"We owe the county commissioners our united support in this matter, and it is up to us to go back to our home districts and boost the road bond issue until the last vote is placed in the ballot box. Every township in the county is to benefit by this program. It is the greatest that has ever been designed or worked out, and Columbiana county will be enriched greatly after the entire system has been completed, and every part of the county connected by an improved road."

Trustees Laud Plan.

"It's the best program ever developed," was the comment of Lawrence H. Copeland of Millport, "and I for one want to see it go through."

"I'm only sorry that all farmers in the county could not have heard the address of Mr. Kyes," said Fred George of Madison township. "I want to see good roads all over this county. I know what good roads means to the farmer."

"No fair minded person could oppose this road bond proposition," S. M. Van Blaricorm of Perry township said. "The low tax rate that this $950,000 bond issue will carry is as simple as A, B, C. I want to see the bond issue go over big."

"What Mr. Kyes said meets with my approval and also the approval of the people of Middleton township."

STOLEN AUTO IS RECOVERED

Local Police Aid in Search for Coraopolis Car.

Coraopolis police, with the co-operation of Wellsville authorities, Sunday advanced another stage in their widespread search for the band of automobile thieves who a week ago held up a Coraopolis garage and escaped with two cars, with the finding last night of the second car that figured in the escapade, abandoned along the road between Mingo Junction and New Alexandria, Jefferson county.

The automobile was located by Wellsville authorities and this morning was given over to Coraopolis officials here. All but one of the suspects have been arrested.

The band of thieves entered the Coraopolis garage late Sunday night a week ago, held up the night watchman and drove out with two automobiles. As they sped away in the cars, the watchman opened fire on them and one of the group was wounded.

One of the cars, a Peerless, was found near Pittsburgh and several members of the gang later were rounded up near the Southside, Pittsburgh. Tracing the other car and its occupants, police found the wounded member of the band in a Youngstown hospital. Here, for several days the search was held up. Saturday Chief of Police Fultz, who several days ago had been informed of the robbery, learned than an abandoned automobile had been seen near Mingo Junction. Accompanied by Mayor J. S. Barnes and Officers Pugh and Excell, he conducted a search and found the machine, which was still in good condition. There was a bullet mark on one of the doors of the car, a Jewett coupe, a few inches below the glass window.

Coraopolis police claimed the car this morning.

PENNSY WILL BE ENGINEERS' HOST

The Pennsylvania railroad will be host on October 5, 6 and 7 to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, which will hold its annual meeting at Altoona, Pa. It has been 42 years since the society met in Altoona. Its membership now includes 18,000 engineers organized into 67 local sections throughout the country.

In addition to important technical discussions and addresses of general interest one of the features of the meeting will be an operating demonstration of a large electric locomotive at the Pennsylvania railroad's test plant in the Altoona shops, the largest railroad shops in the world. This locomotive is the first of its kind to be so tested. The visiting engineers will thus have an opportunity to observe methods of measuring the operating characteristics of one of the newest of railroad engines. The test plant at Altoona has been one of the important factors in the development of steam and electrical locomotives on the system. The formal program of the meeting will open on Monday, October 5, at the Penn Alto hotel, where the members of the society and their guests will be welcomed by Elisha Lee, vice president in charge of operations of the Pennsylvania railroad. At this meeting, too, honorary membership in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will be conferred on General William Wallace Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The session on Tuesday will be opened by an address by Samuel Rea, retired president of the Pennsylvania, who will discuss transportation in its physical, economic, financial and legislative phases and give his views on the future of railroad transportation in this country. A paper on the locomotive testing plant and its influence on steam locomotive design will be read by Lawford P. Fry who will deal with the history of locomotive testing plants and the progress in locomotive design which they made possible.

Mr. Samuel P. Rush, president of the Buckeye steel casting company will address the meeting on Tuesday on the transportation industry. Wednesday there will be addresses by Albert J. It has been only recently that esparto could be imported into this country at a cost permitting its commercial use.

The bureau's report shows that the imported grass pulp, after cleaning, gave a 60 per cent yield of paper-making fiber which produced paper stronger than the soda pulp product of this country.

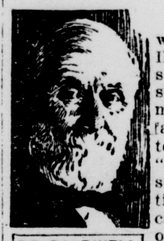
Mother! Don't "Physic" a Child



DR. CALDWELL AT AGE 83

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Fashion Says "Net Curtains"

Homemakers are fast turning to net (or lace) as the most delightful, as well as satisfactory, curtaining.

Because a well made net has that dignity and character essential in an adequate window covering.

Another big factor is the transparency of net. No woven fabric gives so decorative an effect with so little obstruction to the view from the window.

From the practical side net is the most durable of curtainings.

But of course, what counts most right now is that Fashion says "Net Curtains."

The visible portion of the "milky way" contains several separate and well-defined clouds of calcium, each of which moves with respect to the stellar system as a whole, Prof. Otto Struve of Yerkes said in his paper.

Professor Struve, who has recently made a study of spectograms at Yerkes, found the "intensity of the bright lines of hydrogen in the star, Kappa Dracondish is weakened until now it is like any ordinary star."

Bones of Many Camels Unearthed in Wyoming

Chicago.—Six million years ago, parts of the United States were inhabited by camels. A freak storm drove thousands of these camels, each eight or nine feet high, into an area ten by four miles near Lusk, Wyo., where all of them perished.

The skull, limb bones and neck of one of these animals has been discovered by Paul C. Miller, curator of the Walker museum, at the University of Chicago, and these bones, together with 1,600 pounds of miscellaneous fossils found in the Miocene and Oligocene areas of Nebraska, Wyoming and South Dakota are being shipped back to the museum for more extended study.

A million years after the storm that wiped out the American camels, two merychippi, or three-toed horses, ancestors of the modern Dobbin, died near Seep Creek, Nebr. Their skeletons, about as large as Shetland ponies, have been found.

U. S. Produces Paper From African Grass

Washington. — Paper made from esparto, an African wild grass, has been produced by the bureau of standards on a commercial basis and samples have been made available to American industry as a government test.

It has been only recently that esparto could be imported into this country at a cost permitting its commercial use.

The bureau's report shows that the imported grass pulp, after cleaning, gave a 60 per cent yield of paper-making fiber which produced paper stronger than the soda pulp product of this country.

Mother! Don't "Physic" a Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Montigello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Fashion Says "Net Curtains"

Homemakers are fast turning to net (or lace) as the most delightful, as well as satisfactory, curtaining.

Because a well made net has that dignity and character essential in an adequate window covering.

Another big factor is the transparency of net. No woven fabric gives so decorative an effect with so little obstruction to the view from the window.

From the practical side net is the most durable of curtainings.

HOME CRAFT WEEK
October 5th to 10th

During this week particularly our Drapery Department is showing a wonderful collection of nets and net curtains including the finest collection from the world-famous Quaker Line.

You will find both the style and the price pleasing.

Quaker Filet Always in Style

Curtain styles come and go but a neat filet net curtain is always in good taste. Quaker Filet Curtains are not only attractive and appropriate but give years of satisfactory service.

At $2.00 to $9.00 the Pair.

Quaker Nets

The spirit of this curtaining is refinement, a reserve and dignity that makes it a charming curtaining for living room, dining room or any of the more formal rooms of the home.

35c to $2.50 the Yard

Fringed Curtains

The Quaker Lace Company were the originators of fringed curtains. Today they are more than popular—they are well nigh universal, made as they are, in such nets as Shadow Lace, Filet, Tuscan, and Sunshine. We offer them all made, ready to hang, at $3.00 to $16.00 the Pair.

Human nature loves freshness and variety—and the home is no exception. The easiest way to attain it is by using new curtains, draperies, new cretonne cushions for a vivid spot of color and new chair coverings.

Here you will find dozens of ideas to bring freshness into the home. Just a touch here and there will do wonders. New curtains will intensify the winter sunshine that streams through them. You'll be surprised at how easily you can hold the family's interest by adding brightness and color throughout the house.

New Oldsmobile Six Captures Two National Records

Two records over the most gruelling courses in the nation have been captured by a new Oldsmobile Six stock car. Within a week a brand new car taken from a shipment from the factory smashed all previous records on the Pikes Peak and the Lookout Mountain-Bear Creek Canon runs.

These two routes are considered the hardest road tests possible to apply to any automobile. They embrace grades, tortuous curves and switchbacks, steep descents and short stairways where quick acceleration is imperative if record time is to be made. As a result of the natural handicaps to be encountered, every part of an automobile is called upon to give maximum service—pulling power, speed, quick pick-up, roadability, stamina of chassis, and positive and strong steering and breaking power.

The new Oldsmobile has been driven less than 2,000 miles when it was started over the Lookout Mountain route with Floyd Clymer of Denver driving. It was a regular stock car except that the top had been removed to decrease wind resistance.

The Lookout Mountain and Circle route is 57 miles long and contains 412 dangerous curves, many of them of the "hairpin" variety. The entire run was one hour, 16 minutes and nine seconds.

On Sept. 5, one week later, Clymer piloted the Oldsmobile up the Pike's Peak course in 28 minutes, 49 seconds, the fastest ever made by a stock car. This run is 12 1-2 miles long and the grade rises approximately a mile in that distance. The elevation is 9,150 feet above sea level at Crystal Falls, where the run starts, and is 14,109 feet at the summit of the mountain. In one two-mile stretch the elevation rises 995 feet, which is 203 feet higher than the Woolworth building in New York City.

Road Bond Issue Is Endorsed

The importance of the proposed $950,000 bond issue, which the Columbiana county commissioners will submit to the electors on Tuesday, November 3, for the purpose of paying the county's share of the compensation, damages and expenses of improving a network of roads, is emphasized by the endorsement of the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber has approved the program which will require less than one mill taxes outside the limitations to pay the interest on the bonds and retire them at maturity within a maximum period of 10 years.

If the plan is approved by 55 per cent of the voters, the commissioners propose to improve the Homeworth-North Georgetown, Moultrie-Star County Line, North Georgetown-Salem, Columbiana-New Waterford, Rogers-Negley, Eldton-Clarkson, Lisbon-Salineville, Summitville-Salineville-Lincoln highway, Salem-Hanover, Leetonia-Washingtonville, East Palestine-East Liverpool, Youngstown-East Liverpool and Wellsville-Salineville roads.

This is undoubtedly the most extensive road improvement program ever contemplated by Columbiana county, as it will link every nook and corner of the sub-division with a good highway. It means that the Ohio river county will assume its place as one of the most progressive units of the state.

Support of the plan is sound business judgment, for the state and nation, through the highway departments, are expected to match dollars with the county, with the result that approximately $2,220,000 will be available for road building.

The road bond issue should be sanctioned.

Earning In College

Parents and prospective college students may be interested in the statement of a Standard Oil official who was asked what qualities he expected in young men he hired. He explained that if he had to pick 50 employes from a college graduating class and had only five minutes to do it in, he would ask all those who had earned one-third or more of their college expenses to step to one side. These are ones he would be interested in.

If there were more than the 50 he needed, he would ask them to divide themselves into the following groups: Those who had worked at any jobs that came to hand, and those who had tried to find jobs in line with their scholastic interests and with the work they hoped to take up after graduation. He would take his first choice from those boys of the second group who had shown "discrimination and judgment" in their undergraduate job-seeking.

Under proper conditions working one's way through school is no disgrace, no hardship, no handicap. It is far more likely to be of genuine help in more lines than the one of financial relief.

Jap-Yank Trouble-Makers

A Japanese business man who has come from Kobe to buy American goods gives a refreshing view of the Japanese attitude toward America.

He starts with a mild complaint. "Every time I wanted to go to the theater in San Francisco," he tells an eastern reporter, "the ticket seller sent me up near the ceiling. I don't believe you do that here.

"But," he adds, "you can't blame them in California, for they get the poorest class of Japanese, and judge the rest by that class."

As for sentiment at home, he says that immigration restrictions in America against Japanese have not caused resentment or agitation in any but the middle class in his country.

"And that class never comes to America anyway," he says. "That's the whole trouble between the two nations. The ones that make all the fuss don't know what they are talking about." Which is probably "more than half true," as Mark Twain used to say.

The Spread Of Evil

The floor in a ten-cent store was scrubbed clean, as it should have been. But one spot near the entrance was not dried. A woman customer slipped and fell there, and hurt her hip. She sued the store. Now the store has to pay her 150,000 dimes in damages, the profits from several hundred thousand sales.

It was a little thing, that store's offense, and entirely unforseen. That is the difficulty with this complicated modern life of ours.

In primitive times, when one person did another a wrong, intentional or unintentional, it was a definite, concrete, demonstrable thing. Now a wrong of commission or omission may be inflicted on any one of millions when the wrong-doer has never been seen. It may be felt far away, and long after the doer has forgotten what he did.

The compensating fact is that if evil spreads in this distressing way, good does likewise. Never was the power for good so great as it is today.

Still, China serves a useful purpose in the international system. As long as the powers can knock her around they don't get into more serious deviltry.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—Diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and came an invitation from Achmed Abdullah, the tayle writer, to join him and others in esoteric mysteries of sipping Turkish coffee on a fifteenth century Bokhara rug. And perhaps gaze at a twentieth century fire escape.

To walk with my dog and a great crowd in front of an uncompleted building in East Thirty-ninth street, a steel worker having fallen 10 floors and all workers were quitting for the day, which I am told is the custom following accidents.

In the evening Monta Bell came and Adolph Menjou, the cinema player, and Menjou told of having once been so low in funds he lived in a Mills hotel and I found him pleasant, modest and well spoke and we all sat talking until long after midnight. So to bed.

The Black Belt in Harlem gave a quiet dinner one night recently to celebrate the reprieve from death in the electric chair granted "Yellow Charleston" who shot and killed Barron Wilkins, black and tan cabaret proprietor. Barron Wilkins was a despotic ruler of the Black Belt's underworld. He was feared and despised. When "Yellow Charleston," a shuffling figure primed with drugs and gin, pistoled him to death denizens of the Dark Continent exhaled a collective sigh of relief. "Yellow Charleston" was regarded more as a liberator than a murderer. A second reprieve was denied "Yellow Charleston" and he was later electrocuted.

Barron Wilkins was a shiny ebonied Beau Brummel. When he walked along the Lenox boulevard crowds fell away from his path like wheat before a scythe. His teeth gleamed with gold an dhe had a vest that sparkled with chip diamond buttons. He was reputed to traffic in white women and his political pull was said to be great, his jazz joint was a focal poin for downtown slummers. When bullets crumpled him to the sidewalk he murmured, "They finally got me"—and grinned.

Men who follow Nietzsche's advice in living hard and dangerously as a rule do not die gamely. They claw at the air and whine for assistance. An ambulance surgeon tells of reaching a dare devil gangster stretched out in a pool of blood on Fourteenth street. His eyes were glazing. "Save me, doc," he pleaded, "I want to go straight." It was too late.

Masculine vanity. A side street haberdasher was doing slim business. He had only one mirror in his shop. He lined the walls with mirrors and is enjoying a flourishing trade.

One sometimes wonders how the hundreds of taxi drivers manage to make a living—especially those who drive dilapidated cabs. Yet they do. They do not follow beaten paths for one thing. Dining in an obscure place, several padlocks up the block of a side street, I saw 10 of them pick up fares one after another as they waited out front. They realize that perhaps diners having dined a little unwisely but well, are likely to feel rich enough to indulge a cab. In such event they are not particular and take the first cab in sight.

Wit megaphoned from a dollar sightseeing bus: "The only difference between the regular Fifth avenue but and our is 90 cents."

From Forty-second street to Fifty-ninth in mid-town there are said to be 300 speakeasies which wear various disguises from ordinary tea rooms in chintz to private apartments with butler service.

HASKIN'S LETTER

MacMillan Studies Norse Ruins.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—Landing at Hopedale, Labrador, the MacMillan Arctic expedition, upon its return after being checked in its quest for the unknown continent of the north, stopped to investigate what are purported to be Norse ruins in the region. These ruins, and others which appear in various places along the eastern coast of America, have given rise to questions which have been the source of heated arguments for many years. The big item in the controversy is whether the Norsemen reached America prior to the landing of Columbus.

Purely hypothetical arguments have been advanced on both sides. There have been those who said that the Norsemen were here because certain of their words had been discovered in the language of the Dakotah tribes; that the Iroquois nations showed unmistakable traces of the Norse laws; that Indian traditions spoke of white-skinned and fair-haired people who emerged from the great sea, and that even as far south as Mexico Indian tradition spoke of people who answered the description of the Norsemen. But other students have disregarded these arguments because they were open to doubt. The MacMillan expedition hopes to solve the question through its perusal of the ruins in Labrador.

Those who declare the Norsemen reached America long before Columbus have one great source to reply upon. This is composed of the sagas. These sagas, finding their origin in the ancient Norse style of literature, were sung about the countries to the west and about the wonders of these countries. From theg a great amount of information is gathered, all of which tends to prove that the Vikings heached American and even settled here, their colonies fourishing for some time, and finally atrophying and dying out.

The impulse to move westward was the result of a nationalistic movement in the Scandinavian countries, Norway in particular. This movement, fostered by a line of kings, succeeded in suppressing the bold Vikings and establishing a suzerainty over the country.

Would Not Have a King.

The Vidkings, who had subjugated Normandy, invaded Germany, founded Russia, protected the Roman Emperor at Byzantium by supplying him with guards, and done many other notable things, refused to submit to such a task-master as king. Above all they were independent and valued freedom above their lives. Hence they left their native heath and took to the sea in their dragons, relying on the stars and their ravens to guide them.

The sagas tell that one Ari Maarson, on such an expedition, sighted the American continent. He was blown westward by a terrific gale which defied his oars and he sighted a strange land of forests and hills and pleasant beaches. What it was he did no tknow, but he gave it the name of Hvitramannaland, which unpronounceable appellation, when reduced to plain English, means Great Ireland. What happened to this daring mariner is unknown, but here again the sagas offer an explanation. They relate that he was received by the Indians as a messiah, the coming of whom had been foretold by their prophets, and who was described as having fair hair and white skin, through which the blood might be seen coursing. The ruddy complexion of the Norsemen might well have answered this description.

It is further related that he was rescued by his kinsmen and that the Indians again awaited his coming and were satisfied with the shipwreck of another Norseman who stayed with them until his death.

Several years after Ari came Frik Thorvaldsson the Red, outlaw, pirate, warrior, who refused to bow to the sceptre of the king. He settled in Greenland, naming it so in order to attract others. This was about 984 or 986 A. D. There were two settlements effected, one near the modern Julianehaab, about 100 miles around Cape Farewell, and another, near the modern Godthaab, about 300 miles further up the west coast. These settlements flourished for centuries, became Christian, and were given bishops who acted in that capacity there, until, at the beginning of the fifteenth century they appear to have vanished.

Erik was followed by his intrepid son, Leif Eriksson, Leif the Lucky, who, having heard of the land to the west, set sail in the year 1000 to find out about it. It is presumed that he reached the coast of Labrador and was not pleased with it. He named it Helluland. Cruising southward he came some days later to a country he called Markland, supposed to be the modern Nova Scotia or Cape Breton. From thence he came further south until, if the sagas are to be believed, he lanced in New England, where he built his famous landing booths, and called the country Vinland the Good.

Son Killed By Indians.

Leif returned to Greenland and told his tale and in 1002, Thorald, youngest son of Erik, in company with a large group of adenturers, set sail for Vinland. The sagas say they reached New England, where Thorvald was killed in a battle with the Skraellings, a term applied to the Indians. He was buried at Cross Cape and the expedition returned home. Thornstein, eldest son of Erik, then set out for Vinland, accompanied by his wife, Gudrid. They met unfavorable weather, however, and were blown back to Greenland, where Thornstein succumbed to a plague.

An Icelander, Thorfinn Karlsefni, sojourning in Greenland, met and married Gudrid, a year or so later. He heard of the land of the grape, where all was beautiful, and, bering a merchant, elected to go to it in order to increase his wealth. He set sail in 1007, accompanied by his wife and Freydis, Erik's daughter, her husband and a company of 160. They are supposed to have founded a colony, but dissension arose between Freydis and Gudrid, the Skraellings attacked them, and, after trying times, they returned home.

Freydis, the Baerserker, seems to have been an evil genius. She returned, with her husband, together with two Norwegians, who were brothers, to Vinland. She aspired to be queen, and, after hopeless dissension, due to her vain schemes, had separated the Norwegian brothers, Helgi and Finnbogi, from her colony, she incited an attack on them and their company. Freydias is said to have murdered the brothers with her axe as they slept, while her men fell on their followers and slew them. Finally she stood to survey her bloody work, when she espied five women, whom her men had spared. She coldly proceeded to cut them down with her axe, thus annihilating her enemies.

She returned to Greenland with her husband, where her brother Leif heard of her evil deed. He banished them from the settlement, forbidding any one to speak to them, look at them, or give them shelter. They fled to the desolate ice plateau where they died a miserable death.

Such are the sagas concerning the family of Erik. They point to the fact that America was discovered by the Norsemen, centuries before the birth of Columbus. Likewise other sagas tell of the Norsemen in Mexico seeing Popocatepetl smoking in the distance, of exploring a river answering the description of the Potomac, and of many other things. The opponents of the theory declare that these things could have happened in other lands closer home. The MacMillan expedition may find the key to the answer in Labador and settle the question once and for all.

Road Bond Issue Is Endorsed

The importance of the proposed $950,000 bond issue, which the Columbiana county commissioners will submit to the electors on Tuesday, November 3, for the purpose of paying the county's share of the compensation, damages and expenses of improving a network of roads, is emphasized by the endorsement of the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce.

"The road bond issue is going to be a big success," said J. M. Johnson, of the Franklin township trustees.

"It's the most constructive measure ever presented the people," said J. T. Croxall of the Liverpool township board.

J. M. Kerr Urges Support

"This is the greatest meeting of the kind ever held in our county," J. M. Kerr, of the Yellow Creek township trustees, said. "This road program as worked out by the commissoiners is the best I ever heard of, and we stand four-square behind the proposition. We should thank the commissioners and the county surveyor for working out such a program, and at such low cost. We should all go back home, take our coats off and begin to work for the success of this bond issue and road program as we never worked before. It's a wonderful thing for this county."

Frank A. Graupner, of the Washington township board, declared that the people of Columbiana county should feel grateful to the commissioners and the county surveyor for working out the primary road program. "We should show our appreciation by going back home and getting back of this bond issue. It means much for our county."

It was also explained during the meeting that Wayne county, Michigan, is known to have the greatest system of roads of any sub-division in the United States, and that state highway department officials have said that should the Columbiana county program go over, that Columbiana county will then be the second best good roads county in the country.

F. R. McLain Shot

sales room; I want to go home," was the message, the elder McLain said.

The brother, he said, drove the cab to the sales room at the foot of Broadway, received his passenger and proceeded to the Anderson home.

"My brother told the police in the presence of other witnesses, said the elder McLain, "that he helped Anderson out of the cab and into the house and then up the stairs to Anderson's bedroom on the second floor.

"After putting him in the room, Frank, so he told me, turned and started to leave the room. He said that his passenger then pulled a revolver and fired.

"No words were exchanged, my brother said. There was no provocation for the shooting, Frank declared.

Accident, Says Aunt.

Miss Elizabeth Anderson, aunt of the accused, with whom Anderson has made his home for many years, today expressed the opinion that the shooting was accidental.

"George came home about 11 o'clock Saturday night," she said. "I was in bed but I arose to let him in. He was with the taxicab driver and I realized at once that he was intoxicated.

"I asked the stranger to help him into bed and the two went upstairs. For a few minutes I heard them talking but could not tell what was being said. Then I heard a shot. I rushed upstairs. In George's bedroom the driver was lying on his side on the floor.

"The light was burning. Over the wounded man stood George as if in a dazed condition. The gun was on the dresser. Mr. McLain asked me to get a doctor and George said, 'Call Dr. Bailey.' I took the gun and hurried down stairs where I hid it. I then called the doctor. By that time, neighbors, attracted by the shot, were coming in and I remember nothing else.

"I cannot believe that George purposely shot Mr. McLain. I know there was no hard feeling between the two and that he would not have done it purposely. I raised George from a boy and he was like a son to me. I cannot believe it."

Miss Anderson claimed that her nephew had not carried the revolver for she had noticed it in the drawer of the dresser in his room when she made the bed and cleaned the room on Saturday.

A neighbor, living opposite the Anderson home, said that no light was burning in Anderson's room when he heard the report of the shot.

Bullet Drills Through Body.

Drs. C. H. Bailey, W. N. Bailey and M. D. McCutcheon were called to attend McLain. In an effort to save his life, Dr. C. H. Bailey, assisted by the other physicians, performed an operation.

According to the physicians, the steel jacket bullet entered the left flank, plowed through the body and came out at a point in front of the right hip bone. The intestines were perforated 14 times as the bullet drilled through the body, it is said.

Pennsylvania Railroad Detective Fred Herline, of Wellsville, who was at city hall when a telephone call from a woman, presumably Miss Anderson, was received, advising police of the shooting, also co-operated in the investigation.

When police reached the scene Miss Anderson had taken possession of the revolver, police said.

Coroners Verdict.

In the custody of Chief McDermott, and Sheriff George Wright, Anderson was taken to the county jail yesterday afternoon after arraignment before the mayor. His only comment enroute to Lisbon was: "I am not feeling very good."

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, conducted an inquest yesterday afternoon at the MacLean morgue in Wellsville, where the body was taken. His verdict was: "Homicide by shoting."

Unless a special session of the grand jury is called, Anderson's case will not be considered until January.

Prisoner Was Football Star.

Anderson, w ho is divorced, is well known throughout the Ohio Valley because of his prominence in athletics. Fifteen years ago he was a star football player on the Kenyon college team and later he was a member of independent elevens in the East Liverpool district.

For the last two years he has operated a motor truck sales agency in the old Colonial hotel building, south Broadway. Prior to that he is said to have been interested in a cigar store in Wheeling, W. Va.

Funeral Services Tuesday.

McLain, the victim of the shooting, is a son of Jesse R. McLain, of Cream City, near Irondale. He was a member of Davidson lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Irondale.

Besides his father, he leaves a widow, nee Mildred Stewart, who before her marriage resided in Hammondsville; one son, Jesse R., Jr., three years old; three sisters, Mrs. A. A. McBane, Wellsville; Mrs. B. F. Call, Toronto, and Miss Anna McLain, of Cream City, and one brother, Albert, of East Liverpool.

The body was removed from the McLain funeral home to the father's home in Cream City late yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be held there at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, in charge of Rev. Mr. Trotter, pastor of the Irondale Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in the New Somerset Methodist Episcopal cemetery.

Because of the death of the brother the McLain Yellow Cab agency and vulcanizing shop will be closed until 6 o'clock Tuesday evening.

NAVY BARRAGE HITS MITCHELL AIR THEORIES

Colonel's Ideas are Refuted as he Prepares for Trial.

PROBE GOES ON

Machinery Set in Motion For Calling Court-Martial.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—The navy continued its barrage against the aviation theories of Col. William Mitchell today.

Lieut. Byron J. Connell, pilot of the PN-9 No. 1 plane in the unsuccessful Hawaiian flight, appeared before the president's air board, and by inference, when not directly, refuted some of Mitchell's theories.

The broad Atlantic and Pacific form a natural defense for the United States against air invasion by an enemy power, Connell said anent Mitchell's warning of "foreign air invasion."

Connell declared there were no planes at present which could fly across either ocean, armed with bombs.

"Hasn't the United States a plane which could fly 1,000 miles or 2,000 miles with bombs and return?" Connell was asked.

"We have no such plane," the pilot replied.

"Does any other nation have such a plane—one capable of flying across the Atlanic or Pacific?"

"No, sir, there is no such plane known to present day aviation."

"Is there a plane that could fly across either ocean with bombs?"

"Not without a considerable number of ships or landing stations along the route," said Connell.

Mitchell Learns Charges.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. — The machinery of the war department began to move today to discipine Col. William Mitchell for his attacks on high ranking officials, and his criticism of the manner in which the air services are being conducted.

Shortly before 11 o'clock this morning, Mitchell reported to the inspector general of the army to be acquainted with the charges that have been preferred against him and to make such "explanation" as he cared to.

Col. Mitchell appeared at the department in civilian clothes.

Col. G. A. Nugent, acting inspector general in the absence of Maj. Gen. Eli Helmick, did the honors, which were formal and brief.

Declines To Comment.

Col. Mitchell was formally appraised of the charges against him and was asked whether he cared to make any statement of explanation, the usual procedure in the case of an officer of field rank who is to be tried by a court martial.

What, if any statement, Michell made was not disclosed. The proceedings lasted but 20 minutes, and when they were ended neither Mitchell nor Nugent would comment on the matter.

With this routine disposed of the inspector general will now draw up a report and recommend for the secre will consist chiefly of (1) whether Mitchell has violated that article of war covering "conduct prejudicial to to good order and military discipline, (2) whether the charges against him can be proved, and (3) whether he should be tried.

TODAY

She can and she does run flying machines, conducts business, goes into politics, gets elected.

Look at the happy girl of 1925, then at her little sister of 100 years ago.

For the girl of 1775 it was get up before daybreak, work hard, go to the little school, come home again, sit around with downcast eyes waiting for somebody to marry her. Then devote the rest of her life to the thing she married, to the spinning wheel, the kitchen and the old cradle.

She is free.

She knows it, and she means to remain free.

Would you rather raise onions, or sell onions?

Out of $1 worth of onions the farmer gets 30 cents for planting, cutivating, weeding, packing, shipping; the retailer gets 54 cents for putting the onions in a bag, handing them to a customer and saying "Anything else?" The problem of this country is distribution.

What is your opinion of smallpox vaccination? In the Philippines, in old days when Spain ruled, the natives died like flies of smallpox, cholera and many diseases.

Recently under American scientific administration, the smallpox deaths were cut down to 14.30 per 10,000 of population, and since 1921, following an extensive vaccination campaign, which included vaccination of 2,132,653 persons, smallpox has been practically wiped out.

The deaths now are less than one in 100,000.

THEORIES on vaccination are interesting. But FACTS are more valuable.

Business men returning from Germany say that the poor people there wear silk—the artificial kind made from wood fiber—because they can't afford the high prices of cotton goods. That will interest cotton men in the United States.

There was a time long ago, when the cotton plant was first brought to Europe, and only the very rich could afford to wear calico. At that time also, only the rich could afford to eat the "sweet gravel" ordered by doctors' presciptions.

Now that sweet gravel, otherwise granulated sugar, is the cheapest good food that the human race possesses.

sales room; I want to go home," was the message, the elder McLain said.

The brother, he said, drove the cab to the sales room at the foot of Broadway, received his passenger and proceeded to the Anderson home.

"My brother told the police in the presence of other witnesses, said the elder McLain, "that he helped Anderson out of the cab and into the house and then up the stairs to Anderson's bedroom on the second floor.

"After putting him in the room, Frank, so he told me, turned and started to leave the room. He said that his passenger then pulled a revolver and fired.

"No words were exchanged, my brother said. There was no provocation for the shooting, Frank declared.

Accident, Says Aunt.

Miss Elizabeth Anderson, aunt of the accused, with whom Anderson has made his home for many years, today expressed the opinion that the shooting was accidental.

"George came home about 11 o'clock Saturday night," she said. "I was in bed but I arose to let him in. He was with the taxicab driver and I realized at once that he was intoxicated.

"I asked the stranger to help him into bed and the two went upstairs. For a few minutes I heard them talking but could not tell what was being said. Then I heard a shot. I rushed upstairs. In George's bedroom the driver was lying on his side on the floor.

"The light was burning. Over the wounded man stood George as if in a dazed condition. The gun was on the dresser. Mr. McLain asked me to get a doctor and George said, "Call Dr. Bailey." I took the gun and hurried down stairs where I hid it. I then called the doctor. By that time, neighbors, attracted by the shot, were coming in and I remember nothing else.

"I cannot believe that George purposely shot Mr. McLain. I know there was no hard feeling between the two and that he would not have done it purposely. I raised George from a boy and he was like a son to me. I cannot believe it."

Miss Anderson claimed that her nephew had not carried the revolver for she had noticed it in the drawer of the dresser in his room when she made the bed and cleaned the room on Saturday.

A neighbor, living opposite the Anderson home, said that no light was burning in Anderson's room when he heard the report of the shot.

Bullet Drills Through Body.

Drs. C. H. Bailey, W. N. Bailey and M. D. McCutcheon were called to attend McLain. In an effort to save his life, Dr. C. H. Bailey, assisted by the other physicians, performed an operation.

According to the physicians, the steel jacket bullet entered the left flank, plowed through the body and came out at a point in front of the right hip bone. The intestines were perforated 14 times as the bullet drilled through the body, it is said.

Pennsylvania Railroad Detective Fred Herline, of Wellsville, who was at city hall when a telephone call from a woman, presumably Miss Anderson, was received, advising police of the shooting, also co-operated in the investigation.

When police reached the scene Miss Anderson had taken possession of the revolver, police said.

Coroners Verdict.

In the custody of Chief McDermott, and Sheriff George Wright, Anderson was taken to the county jail yesterday afternoon after arraignment before the mayor. His only comment enroute to Lisbon was: "I am not feeling very good."

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, conducted an inquest yesterday afternoon at the MacLean morgue in Wellsville, where the body was taken. His verdict was: "Homicide by shoting."

Unless a special session of the grand jury is called, Anderson's case will not be considered until January.

Prisoner Was Football Star.

Anderson, who is divorced, is well known throughout the Ohio Valley because of his prominence in athletics. Fifteen years ago he was a star football player on the Kenyon college team and later he was a member of independent elevens in the East Liverpool district.

For the last two years he has operated a motor truck sales agency in the old Colonial hotel building, south Broadway. Prior to that he is said to have been interested in a cigar store in Wheeling, W. Va.

Funeral Services Tuesday.

McLain, the victim of the shooting, is a son of Jesse R. McLain, of Cream City, near Irondale. He was a member of Davidson lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Irondale.

Besides his father, he leaves a widow, nee Mildred Stewart, who before her marriage resided in Hammondsville; one son, Jesse R., Jr., three years old; three sisters, Mrs. A. A. McBane, Wellsville; Mrs. B. F. Call, Toronto, and Miss Anna McLain, of Cream City, and one brother, Albert, of East Liverpool.

The body was removed from the McLain funeral home to the father's home in Cream City late yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be held there at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, in charge of Rev. Mr. Trotter, pastor of the Irondale Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in the New Somerset Methodist Episcopal cemetery.

Because of the death of the brother the McLain Yellow Cab agency and vulcanizing shop will be closed until 6 o'clock Tuesday evening.

NAVY BARRAGE HITS MITCHELL AIR THEORIES

Colonel's Ideas are Refuted as he Prepares for Trial.

PROBE GOES ON

Machinery Set in Motion For Calling Court-Martial.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—The navy continued its barrage against the aviation theories of Col. William Mitchell today.

Lieut. Byron J. Connell, pilot of the PN-9 No. 1 plane in the unsuccessful Hawaiian flight, appeared before the president's air board, and by inference, when not directly, refuted some of Mitchell's theories.

The broad Atlantic and Pacific form a natural defense for the United States against air invasion by an enemy power, Connell said anent Mitchell's warning of "foreign air invasion."

Connell declared there were no planes at present which could fly across either ocean, armed with bombs.

"Hasn't the United States a plane which could fly 1,000 miles or 2,000 miles with bombs and return?" Connell was asked.

"We have no such plane," the pilot replied.

"Does any other nation have such a plane—one capable of flying across the Atlanic or Pacific?"

"No, sir, there is no such plane known to present day aviation."

"Is there a plane that could fly across either ocean with bombs?"

"Not without a considerable number of ships or landing stations along the route," said Connell.

Mitchell Learns Charges.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. — The machinery of the war department began to move today to discipine Col. William Mitchell for his attacks on high ranking officials, and his criticism of the manner in which the air services are being conducted.

Shortly before 11 o'clock this morning, Mitchell reported to the inspector general of the army to be acquainted with the charges that have been preferred against him and to make such "explanation" as he cared to.

Col. Mitchell appeared at the department in civilian clothes.

Col. G. A. Nugent, acting inspector general in the absence of Maj. Gen. Eli Helmick, did the honors, which were formal and brief.

Declines To Comment.

Col. Mitchell was formally appraised of the charges against him and was asked whether he cared to make any statement of explanation, the usual procedure in the case of an officer of field rank who is to be tried by a court martial.

What, if any statement, Michell made was not disclosed. The proceedings lasted but 20 minutes, and when they were ended neither Mitchell nor Nugent would comment on the matter.

With this routine disposed of the inspector general will now draw up a report and recommend for the secre- will consist chiefly of (1) whether Mitchell has violated that article of war covering "conduct prejudicial to to good order and military discipline, (2) whether the charges against him can be proved, and (3) whether he should be tried.

She can and she does run flying machines, conducts business, goes into politics, gets elected.

Look at the happy girl of 1925, then at her little sister of 100 years ago.

For the girl of 1775 it was get up before daybreak, work hard, go to the little school, come home again, sit around with downcast eyes waiting for somebody to marry her. Then devote the rest of her life to the thing she married, to the spinning wheel, the kitchen and the old cradle.

The little girl of 1775 was a charming little creature. The girl of 1925 is charming, and more.

She is free.

She knows it, and she means to remain free.

Would you rather raise onions, or sell onions?

Out of $1 worth of onions the farmer gets 30 cents for planting, cutivating, weeding, packing, shipping; the retailer gets 54 cents for putting the onions in a bag, handing them to a customer and saying "Anything else?" The problem of this country is distribution.

What is your opinion of smallpox vaccination? In the Philippines, in old days when Spain ruled, the natives died like flies of smallpox, cholera and many diseases.

Recently under American scientific administration, the smallpox deaths were cut down to 14.30 per 10,000 of population, and since 1921, following an extensive vaccination campaign, which included vaccination of 2,132,653 persons, smallpox has been practically wiped out.

The deaths now are less than one in 100,000.

THEORIES on vaccination are interesting. But FACTS are more valuable.

LABOR DEMAND IS INCREASING

Situation in State Reported Best in Recent Months.

Employment conditions in West Virginia as a whole are much more satisfactory than they were a month ago and it is comparatively easy for any one who desires work to find it. Such is the closing statement in a letter accompanying his monthly report written by C. M. O'Neal, examiner in charge of the federal-state employment office, to G. F. Daugherty, federal director of the employment service and state commissioner of labor.

Out of 986 applicants who registered at the offices in Charleston, Huntington and Clarksburg, 786 were placed, the report discloses.

"Employment conditions have continued to improve during the month. The improvement is not confnide to any industry, but is most noticeable in the mining industry. Though a great number of miners have come from other states, there is still a slight shortage in some of the coal fields.

The demand for common or unskilled workers is now almost equal to the supply and we are in position to offer employment to practically all those who apply here for common labor jobs. The increased demand for common or unskilled laborers is a result of increased activities in road building and some other construction work.

"The demand for clerical workers of which we always have a surplus was greater during the month than any previous month in the year. This can be attributed to improved conditions in the coal field where additional office and store men and women were needed."

Pasteurized Mothers' Milk Used to Save Babies

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

NOT long ago, I met a friend of mine who is a famous baby doctor. He conduets a series of health stations where expectant mothers are given advice and where tiny babies are guided into health and vigor.

We talked about premature and seriously under-developed babies. These are the infants whose lives are easily snuffed out and whose care is one of the perplexities of the medical profession.

Usually the mother of such an infant is frail, perhaps a semi-invalid. Her supply of breast milk is insufficient or entirely lacking.

In such cases it has been the effort of the doctor to work out a feeding, prepared from modified cow's milk. In many cases, he succeeds in saving the precious little life. Unfortunately, a proportion of such babies die in spite of the struggles of doctor and nurse.

My friend said they are having good luck in caring for premature babies by using pasteurized mother's milk. They have found a large number of mothers who have a surplus of breast milk, far more than their own babies require. The excess of milk is extracted and there are so many mothers contributing in New York City that the total daily quantity is quite amazingly large.

It is a fact well known to all baby experts that the milk of a mixed herd of cows is better than the milk of one cow, unless it happens that that one cow is perfect. For the same reason the mixed milk of this host of noble volunteers is better for the premature baby.

Great care is exercised in the selection of the mothers who are to contribute. To give every assurance of freedom from accidental contamination, however, all the milk is carefully pasteurized.

This experiment has been carried so far in New York that there can be no doubt of its efficacy. There will be prejudice against it, exactly as there was against the employment of wet nurses, but commonsense must prevail. It stands to reason that mother's milk is the right food for the puny infant and for the normal one, too. If this food cannot be had in the usual way, we should applaud any new method for giving the premature baby a chance to live.

TRAFFIC OFFICER'S STUNT DREAM REALIZED IN ARREST OF ELEPHANT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — All his life W. J. Robbins, traffic officer, had dreamed of doing something really big, but as the years rolled by and opportunity failed to knock, he began to get discouraged. Just when he had about given up hope his moment arrived. Now he has to his credit on the police blotter at least on big job, for he has arrested an elephant.

Robbins was watching traffic at a busy intersection. The red light had just flashed on when Robbins saw an elephant disentangle itself from the traffic and amble across the street. Robbins blew his whistle, but was ignored. He grasped the lead rope from the elephant's neck and towed him to the side of the street. The elephant was led to the station. Here the keeper appeared, declared the beast was just a young one and not familiar with traffic rules. On this condition it was released. And the officer was complimented for "having saw his duty and done it."

LABOR DEMAND IS INCREASING

Situation in State Reported Best in Recent Months.

Employment conditions in West Virginia as a whole are much more satisfactory than they were a month ago and it is comparatively easy for any one who desires work to find it. Such is the closing statement in a letter accompanying his monthly report written by C. M. O'Neal, examiner in charge of the federal-state employment office, to G. F. Daugherty, federal director of the employment service and state commissioner of labor.

Out of 986 applicants who registered at the offices in Charleston, Huntington and Clarksburg, 786 were placed, the report discloses.

"Employment conditions have continued to improve during the month. The improvement is not confnide to any industry, but is most noticeable in the mining industry. Though a great number of miners have come from other states, there is still a slight shortage in some of the coal fields.

The demand for common or unskilled workers is now almost equal to the supply and we are in position to offer employment to practically all those who apply here for common labor jobs. The increased demand for common or unskilled laborers is a result of increased activities in road building and some other construction work.

"The demand for clerical workers of which we always have a surplus was greater during the month than any previous month in the year. This can be attributed to improved conditions in the coal field where additional ice and store men and women were needed."

Pasteurized Mothers' Milk Used to Save Babies

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

NOT long ago, I met a friend of mine who is a famous baby doctor. He conducts a series of health stations where expectant mothers are given advice and where tiny babies are guided into health and vigor.

We talked about premature and seriously under-developed babies. These are the infants whose lives are easily snuffed out and whose care is one of the perplexities of the medical profession.

Usually the mother of such an infant is frail, perhaps a semi-invalid. Her supply of breast milk is insufficient or entirely lacking.

In such cases it has been the effort of the doctor to work out a feeding, prepared from modified cow's milk. In many cases, he succeeds in saving the precious little life. Unfortunately, a proportion of such babies die in spite of the struggles of doctor and nurse.

My friend said they are having good luck in caring for premature babies by using pasteurized mother's milk. They have found a large number of mothers who have a surplus of breast milk, far more than their own babies require. The excess of milk is extracted and there are so many mothers contributing in New York City that the total daily quantity is quite amazingly large.

It is a fact well known to all baby experts that the milk of a mixed herd of cows is better than the milk of one cow, unless it happens that that one cow is perfect. For the same reason the mixed milk of this host of noble volunteers is better for the premature baby.

Great care is exercised in the selection of the mothers who are to contribute. To give every assurance of freedom from accidental contamination, however, all the milk is carefully pasteurized.

This experiment has been carried so far in New York that there can be no doubt of its efficacy. There will be prejudice against it, exactly as there was against the employment of wet nurses, but commonsense must prevail. It stands to reason that mother's milk is the right food for the puny infant and for the normal one, too. If this food cannot be had in the usual way, we should applaud any new method for giving the premature baby a chance to live.

WANT TO ADOPT CHILD, AGED 12?

Who wants to adopt a child 12 years of age? asks Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

From time to time he is in receipt of applications from people who desire to adopt children, and a list of these applicants is kept on file. But here is a case where age enters into the subject.

The court is now in a position to present the case of a little girl whose parents are dead.

"I'd like to get a good home for this child," the judge said. "We want a home where she will receive the right kind of training, an education, and where she will be in a position to grow up into happy womanhood. We've got a lot of applications for babies, but we do not have an application on file now from any who are interested in a child of this age."

VOLSTEAD LAW IS BOON TO KANAKA

Sudden Demand for Vanilla Causes Prosperity.

Honolulu.—Prohibition in America has brought untold and unaccustomed wealth to the natives of the French mandated island of Bora Bora through an increase in the demand for and price of vanilla, which developed with the operation of the Volstead act in the United States.

Authority for the statement is Armstrong Sperry, a New York artist, who recently returned from the south seas. He added that, paradoxically as it may seem, the new prosperity has resulted in bankruptcy for more than one native, who hitherto had been comfortably settled in life, and the mortgage of much of the island property to Chinese merchants.

"Formerly vanilla sold at three francs a pound," said Sperry, "but now it is quoted at 75 francs. This rise is the cause of the new state of affairs and the raising of vanilla is the one industry—if it may be called that—of Bora Bora. The people simply plant it in a shady spot and wait for it to mature. It requires practically no care."

With the increased incomes, said Sperry, the tiny interisland copra steamers began to bring strange and unprecedented cargoes. Occasionally there was an automobile, sewing machine, bicycle, phonographs, cases of champagne and other liquors and barrels of Tahitian rum. When he left there were six automobiles in Bora Bora, which has only ten miles of good roads.

"There had been other machines," the artist explained, "but a number of them had been abandoned. As soon as the gasoline gives out, or anything goes wrong, the automobile is left to rust away. Some are even left on the beach with the waves washing over them. But automobiling is great fun while it lasts."

The vanilla market is in San Francisco. The natives send their beans to Papeete, whence they go to the mainland once a month.

The Chinese are the island merchants. They buy the beans from the natives, who will mortgage all they own on the chance of a good crop. Should the crop turn out to be a poor one, the Chinese get the land.

There are two motion picture theaters on the island, which show ancient movies of the West.

Natives Kill Teacher to Prevent Education

Antonio Rosca Robles, Huichel Indian, became inspired with the idea of driving illiteracy out of the Huichel country. He went to school at Guadalajara, where he studied primary education. Returning to the Huichel country, he began teaching children. The Huichel authorities warned him to stop. He refused. He was arrested and taken before a council of Huichel leaders, condemned to death as a traitor to the customs of the tribe, taken outside the village and shot, where his corpse was found by the Mexican authorities the following morning. The Huichels have always fought against civilization.

PICTURE STARS KEEP OWN OFF SILVER SHEET

Mothers and Fathers Warn Their Children Against Screen.

GRAVE PROBLEMS

Bushman, Cody, Lloyd and Kirkwood are Quoted.

Despite the appeal of the silver sheet as a path to fame and wealth, mothers and fathers who are prominent actors do not want their children to go on the stage or play before the cameras.

Claire Windsor, the blonde charmer, has a six-year old son whom she never even permits in the studios where she is engaged.

"I feel sorry for children in pictures," declared Miss Windsor. "It's nerve-wracking work and my boy won't be an actor—unless of course he insists upon it."

Francis X. Bushman has a grave problem to face.

His daughters, Virginia and Lenore, have both had a taste of cinema acting and want to continue, while Bushman insists they return to their college studies.

Calls It Hard Task.

"I'm not enthusiastic about having them follow the screen or stage," said Bushman. "It's a terrible task for women!"

Lew Cody doesn't believe in actors' children following in the steps of their parents. Lew hasn't a son or daughter but he declared there is too much grief to acting as a profession to want any relative in it."

Bill Desmond is ready to fight when it is suggested his daughter may be an actress some day.

Others, Too, Opposed.

And Hahold Lloyd and Mildred Davis feel the same way about Mildred Gloria Lloyd.

Had Charlie Chaplin's newly arrived baby been a boy it was said he would have brought him up as not favoring a screen career for a girl.

Fred Boyington, official cricket scorer of Surrey, England, has been granted a pension of $5.00 a week for life.

Falling off in the number of tourists in Panama recently has caused a dullness in trade there.

WANT TO ADOPT CHILD, AGED 12?

Who wants to adopt a child 12 years of age? asks Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

From time to time he is in receipt of applications from people who desire to adopt children, and a list of these applicants is kept on file. But here is a case where age enters into the subject.

The court is now in a position to present the case of a little girl whose parents are dead.

"I'd like to get a good home for this child," the judge said. "We want a home where she will receive the right kind of training, an education, and where she will be in a position to grow up into happy womanhood. We've got a lot of applications for babies, but we do not have an application on file now from any who are interested in a child of this age."

MODERN ENOCH ARDEN LOCATES HIS SONS

Returns After 16 Years of Globe Trotting.

Huntington, Ind.—Hayden Webber, a modern Enoch Arden, who disappeared from his home at Fairfield, Ill., sixteen years ago, has succeeded after many months in locating three of his sons, Harley Webber, Huntington; Earl Webber, Fort Wayne, and Hayward Webber, Trinity Springs.

None of Webber's relatives had seen him since he walked from his home at Fairfield, Ill., in 1909, after disagreeing with his wife. Webber lost track of his family during his adventures and only through a chance conversation did he learn of the whereabouts of his sons. That brought him to the home of his sister, Mrs. E. B. Streseman, Huntington. Webber's father and mother reside near Andrews, Ind.

The wanderer's wife divorced him and remarried several years after his unceremonious departure.

Inflamed with anger Webber left his Fairfield home, bound for the far West. A tramp steamer set him down on a small island of the Hawaiian group. Once every six months a trans-Pacific liner stopped at Webber's island. This was the only connection with the outside world. In two years he had developed an attractive sugar plantation, literally hacking it out of the island wilderness. A syndicate bought it for more than Webber dreamed of receiving.

The far places called and Webber next appeared in Africa, where he sold supplies, worked for mining companies and speculated in various enterprises. His efforts increased his finances. Two years later he went to Brazil. Growing rubber proved profitable to him.

Finally his native land beckoned and he returned to the United States as the country went to war with Germany. For some time he worked aboard transports plying between Hoboken, N. J., and France. After the war he settled in Jackson, Tenn., becoming a building contractor.

He made several trips to Fairfield, Ill., in search of the members of his family, but his wife and sons were gone and there was no one there who knew where they were located. The boys were put in an orphanage after Webber departed and a few years later his wife remarried.

While conversing with a Jackson (Tenn.) barber Webber was told that the man knew a man of the same name at Huntington. This man turned out to be Harley Webber, son of Heyden Webber. The father went to Huntington and the sons joined him.

177,000 MILES OF U. S. ROAD IN FIVE YEARS

Federal-Aid Highways Being Completed Rapidly.

Washington.—Predicting that the entire 177,000-mile system of federal-aid highways would be completed in five years, the United States bureau of public roads here has announced the completion of a record-breaking fiscal year in which 11,829 miles of federal-aid roads were built. The total of completed federal-aid roads built since 1917 now amounts to 46,485 miles, representing a cost of $845,000,000.

This year's record-breaking progress marks the completion of more than half of the great system of interstate roads that reach every town of 5,000 people or more and put 90 per cent of the population of the United States within ten miles of an improved highway.

Much of the federal-aid system had been built when the huge program of highway development was laid out.

A billion dollars' worth of highways a year is the rate at which road builders are now working, according to the bureau's estimate. This rate is expected to remain nearly constant at least for several years, representing as it does the capacity of road-building forces in the country. That a greater volume of work could be undertaken is regarded as improbable, due to the fact that expansion of the program would have to be made at the expense of other activities.

$243,000,000 Expended.

Cost of the federal-aid system completed during the fiscal year ending June 30 is $243,000,000, of which the federal government's share amounts to $111,000,000. Under construction at the present time are 12,462 miles of federal-aid roads, most of which will be finished during 1926.

Gravel road led in the type of highway completed this year with 4,203 miles. Concrete was next, with 2,806 miles, constituting the largest paved mileage. It is significant that only 129 miles of water bound macadam, formerly the standard type, was constructed, and that 912 miles of bituminous macadam, with 341 miles of bituminous concrete and 107 miles of brick are the only other types of paved roads completed.

Graded Earth in West.

Graded earth stood third in the classification of types with 2,064 miles. Forty-seven miles of bridges were constructed.

Most of the graded and drained earth roads were built in the West, where funds are low and good-roads progress is just starting to make itself felt. The construction of graded earth roads as a foundation for a future highway system that can be improved as money becomes available and traffic increases, is a fundamental principle initiated by Thomas G. McDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, when he was chief engineer of highway forces in Iowa.

The stage construction principle, as Mr. McDonald's plan is called, consists first in making initial improvements such as grading and draining and installing permanent culverts and adequate bridges. The road is thus improved at low cost to serve the immediate necessities of light traffic. When traffic becomes heavier and it is deemed advisable to improve with gravel or a more durable surface, such as concrete, the original improvement has provided a subgrade on which the high type surface can be laid at less additional expense and with far better results than if the original work had been left undone until necessity demanded final improvement.

NEW PHILLY GRIDDERS CROSS LOCALS' GOAL THREE TIMES AND WIN

Blue and White Snaps in Fourth Quarter and Visiting Combine Sends Three Runners Across Final Chalk Mark; Aerial Play Figures in all of Scoring by Fuller's Invaders; Local Line is Stone Wall.

After fighting grimly for a little more than three long quarters, hanging on with bulldog grip and consistently repulsing the invaders' attack, East Liverpool high school gridders temporarily cracked under the prolonged strain Saturday afternoon at Patterson field, and before the breach could be snapped together again, New Philadelphia high, directed by a Rockne trained mentor, crashed through with three touchdowns and a 20 to 0 conquest, their third consecutive victory of the current season.

One of the greatest football scraps staged on the local lot in recent years broke up in that final period when the cord that held the Blue and White defenders together rigidly for more than three-fourths of the battle, stretched taut against the Red and Black attackers, suddenly let go and three touchdowns filtered across the East Liverpool goal line while a crowd of more than 2,000 persons were held almost speechless with surprise.

From the start of the clash until the moments when the visitors began to cavort in East Liverpool scoring territory, it was the consensus of opinion that the battle would end in a deadlock.

Had New Philly been forced to depend solely on line plunging and flank attacks, there would have been no scoring. But a forward pass, coming at an opportune moment in one corner of the field, and another in the other corner, combined with an intercepted East Liverpool heave produced the points that defeated the Blue and White.

From the outset of the engagement, the visitors were unable to accomplish much against the East Liverpool line, even the second team, which was started against Coach Fuller's eleven, holding remarkably well against the enemy.

Statistics of the game reveal the fact that Boone's squad registered nine first downs to New Philadelphia's seven. Each of the teams made two in the first quarter. The locals added two more in the second, while the visitors were making one. Neither side was able to make a first down during the intense battle waged in the third period.

Four first downs were scored for Fuller's outfit in the final stanza while the Blue and White was getting five, the majority on forward passes hurled in the closing minutes of the contest in a vain effort to put the pigskin across the New Philly goal line.

The visitors produced a kicker in Smith, left end, who booted the ball consistently for 40 and 50 yards. Banks and English shared the kicking job for the locals and their punts frequently took the squad out of danger.

Smith, at end, and Halfback Cale were the outstanding performers for the New Philly combine. Smith received the pass from Quarter Mathias in the final period that started Fuller's eleven off on its scoring spree. It was a neat fling in the west corner of the lot and Smith, open, had little trouble going over. Guard Haney was responsible for the second score. An East Liverpool forward pass, almost under their own goal posts, was intercepted by Haney who plunged a few yards to count. The third six point marker ensued when Halfback Cale bagged one of Pearch's tosses in the corner of the lot and circled several defense men.

Captain Paul English was the local eleven's foremost offense star. In the opening period he made an 11-yard gain around right end and in the second period he reeled off 22 on a fake from punt formation. Allison and Rieble hit the line for consistent small gains and Quarter Shaffer's forwards figured to a great extent in the team's ground gaining.

Perry and R. Shaffer, ends, played their customary stalwart game, their defensive tactics cutting down the invaders time after time, aided by Tackles Bough and Banks. The center trio of McKim, Larkins and Kinsey comprised the remainder of the Blue and White forward wall that checked the New Philly rushes.

First Quarter.

The East Liverpool second team took the field and lined up for the kickoff. Kirkham booted the ball to Right Tackle Gilgen who fumbled and Todd recovered on the New Philadelphia 40 yard line. Unable to gain, Kirkham kicked, the visitors taking possession on their 15. Smith, punting for New Philly, returned the boot to midfield. McVey lost five yards at tackle. Kirkham fumbled and recovered back of the line of scrimmage. East Liverpool was penalized five yards for offside play. Kirkham punted to New Philly's 35 yard line where the receiver took it on a fair catch. Enold made four at left tackle. Cale was stopped at center, Enold broke through for a 22 yard gain, being brought down by Heddleston. It was the first real scoring threat of the game. Cale made three at right tackle and Ladrich four at right guard. Boone's second team was replaced by the regulars. Ladrich was stopped at right guard and Winspear on the fourth down, missed a try for a drop kick. The ball came back to the 20 in possession of the Blue and White.

English reeled off 11 yards around right end Allison failed to gain at tackle. Banks got off a long punt which rolled to the New Philly 32 yard line before the defense captured it. Smith returned the punt, the ball going out of bounds on the East Liverpool 20 yard mark. The locals were assessed a five yard offside penalty. Banks booted to the 35 yard line and Cale, taking the punt, ran it back to the 25, being toppled, out of bounds, by English. Cale made five on a criss cross around left end and Winspear added four at right tackle. Ladrich advanced the ball five more yards from fake kick formation. On the next play he fumbled but recovered, losing a couple of yards. Larkins stopped Cale in his tracks on the next play. The first forward pass of the game was knocked down. Winspear's next ariel attempt went wild and the locals took the ball in the shadows of their own goal posts. Banks punted to the E. L. 38 and R. Shaffer downed the runner in his tracks. Cale lost two at left tackle. A pass at left end netted seven yards

Second Quarter.

Enold lost a yard at right end. A drop kick, from the 30 yard line, went far from its mark. English was stopped at right guard for no gain. On the next play he stepped off 22 yards from punt formation. Rieble hit a stone wall at right tackle. Banks booted out of bounds on the 20. Smith immediately returned the kick, Rieble being downed on E. Liverpool's 40. Riebel failed to gain at left end. Banks booted to New Philly's 35 yard line where the runner was stopped. Cale made a yard at left tackle. Ladrich lost a yard on a criss cross play and then kicked, Riebel being stopped on East Liverpool's 30. English hit right tackle for three yards. Shaffer was stopped at center. Banks punted to New Philly's 35 and Cale ran it back to the 48 where McKim brought him down. Enold essayed a long run around right end but his efforts to gain were fruitless. A pass was knocked down. Ladrich was stopped at left tackle. Time was taken out while officials discussed the question raised by Coach Boone as to whether the lines should have been moved, the locals contending that the first down had not been made. Play, however, was resumed with no change in the poles, the visitors failing to profit by the error, if any. The entire right side of the E. L. line swarmed in on an attempted punt and the Blue and White recovered on New Philly's 41. Riebel made a couple at right tackle. A pass to Shaffer was grounded, falling short. Another pass was knocked down. English kicked to the New Philly eight yard line and the runner was dropped almost in his tracks. Smith punted to English on the 40 and he made five yards. Allison lost a yard at right tackle. Shaffer got a nice pass and put the ball o nthe 18. English's try at a drop kick went wide. English caught Smith's punt and made 10 yards to the New Philly 40. Perry pulled down a pass for 11 yards. Two more passes were knocked down and the half ended.

Fourth Quarter.

The ball went into play on East Liverpool's 20. English was stopped at center. Rieble failed to gain at left end. New Philly blocked English's kick and the visitors recovered on the East Liverpool 15 yard line. A pass was grounded over the goal line and the ball went into play on East Liverpool's 20. English made a scant yard at right end. R. Shaffer plucked a pass from the air and took it to the 36. Another pass was grounded. Perry lost the next aerial attempt. The visitors intercepted a pass on East Liverpool's 45. Mathias, quarterback, substituting for Winspear heaved a long pass to Smith down the side of the field and the latter raced over the goal line for the first touchdown. Cale added another point with a drop kick.

The visitors booted to Shaffer on the 32, Shaffer bringing down a pass, went to the 48. The visitors intercepted the next heave and took the ball back to the 38. Enold failed to gain at right tackle. Cale made no gain at right end. Smith kicked and English was downed on his 29. For alleged unnecessary roughness, East Liverpool was penalized 25 yards, putting the pigskin within four yards of the last chalk mark. Attempting to surprise the opposition, the locals essayed a pass. It was intercepted by Haney who plunged a few yards to drop over the goal line for another touchdown. Cale missed his kick.

The visitors kicked, English being stopped on his 20. New Philly intercepted a pass and brought up on the 32. Cale was stopped at left tackle. Maloney, substituting for Ladrich, made four at left guard. Mathias tossed a pass to Cale in the corner of the field and the latter stepped a few yards over the line for the third touchdown. Cale dropkicked for the extra point.

Coach Boone sent in a number of substitutes and a forward passing attack was launched with only a minute or so to play. Several passes were successful, but the clash ended when the visitors intercepted the final fling on their eight yard mark.

Laughlins Stage 3-3 Contest With Grove City Soccer Team

For the second time within two weeks, the Homer Laughlin Soccer club was held to a tie in Pittsburgh Press league competition, when the locals staged a 3-3 game with the Glencoe Thistles on Saturday afternoon at Grove City, Pa.

The locals got off to a good start, scoring in the first minute of play with Cannie kicking goal. Both teams played fast football during the 10-minute interval following, with Eaton booting the first goal in for the Thistles.

Laughlin a short time later was awarded a penalty kick, but Mortenson's try went high over the goal. Eaton again went into action and his goal gave the home eleven a lead. Ferguson and Cannie subsequently launched a terrific attack on the Thistles' goal, but the home goal tender prevented scoring.

At this point the Laughlins were given another penalty kick and Plant made it good, evening the count at two apiece. The half ended a few minutes after McLidlan scored the third goal for the Thistles.

At the outset of the second half Plant missed a penalty kick. The Laughlins subsequently kept the play largely in the Thistles' home territory. The Laughlin forward wall was kicked accurately, but Harris, goal keeper, played a great game and scoring was at a premium. Cannie, following a fine drive, shot in the third goal for the Laughlin eleven and the count again was knotted. Beech made two good saves from corner kicks.

Foster played his first game of the season for Laughlin and made a favorable impression at halfback.

Tagging The Bases

The Phils rose from last place, by virtue of being rained out, and the Cubs flopped into the opening created. The programs wound up the major league seasons. Hornsby's Cardinals, without the aid of their manager and the champion hitter and home run slugger of the season, were responsible for the Cubs final degredation.

The Pirates hit Goodwin hard and beat the Reds, 4 to 2, in the opener, but Peter Donahue all but shut them out in the second game, 4 to 1.

Mostil stole his forty second base of the season as the White Sox closed the season with a fine, old-fashioned victory over the Indians, 10 to 8.

IF VETERAN IS BEATEN IN OPENER, BUCS WILL WIN, EXPERTS CONTEND

Pittsburgh Odds, in Such an Event Would Probably Soar to 8 to 5, But Even Money if he Wins; Baseball History Supports Contention That Club Which Loses First One, Usually Drops the Series; Exceptions are Few.

By Davis J. Walsh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 5.—Actuated by that spirit of strict impartiality peculiar to home towns about to indulge in one end of a world series, the local intelligentsia today came out on its it flat feet with a prediction of victory for the Pirates in the op-ening game. The argument has its points and so has a barbed wire fence.

However, there can be no evasion of the fact that if Pittsburgh can toss Walter Johnson behind the line of scrimmage at the outset, then Washington's immediate future will be that of the gent with a collapsible floor at his feet and a rope for a neck-tie. Johnson is the key-man of the series and on Wednesday he will unlock the door to the secret within.

The fact furnishes the answer to pre-series situation that has made the Pirates rather unnatural favorites at odds of 6 to 5. The gamblers wanted to get their money down on the club that seems to be the majority's favorite before the odds went beyond all reason. If the Pirates beat Johnson in the opener, there will be plenty of Pittsburgh money going about with hat in hand and pleading for a home. Under such conditions, it would surprise no one if the odds soared to 8 to 5, since Johnson probably would have to turn in two victories for the Senators to win the series and he might not get a chance to pitch two more games before it was all over.

However, if Johnson wins the opener the Senators immediately would go to even money or better and the gamblers would proceed to lay off their bets at the prevailing odds, insuring them against loss. Your gambler, of course, is so called because he is a man who never gambles. He merely bets on both clubs at the proper odds and pockets a winning no matter what happens.

In any case, the club that takes the first one on the chin usually has been the loser of a world sereies, therefore, Washington can take the Pittsburgh prediction with ample justification, to wit: If Johnson beats the Pirates in the opener, the Senators will be as good as in.

Baseball history supports this contention. In the 21 years the modern world series has been played since 1903, the club that won the opening game, won the series in no less than 15 occasions, the exceptions were furnished by Pittsburgh in 1903, the Giants in 1922, the Phillies in 1915, the Yankees in 1921, the Giants in 1923 and the same outfit against the Senators last year.

However, the writer will venture this much: If the Pirates drop the first game, their cause will not be as desperate as would be that of the Senators if they lose behind Johnson. He must be right or the thing is off.

Of course, he wasn't right last year and still the Senators won. But it isn't in the book that it can be done two years straight and besides, the Giants had a two-man pitching staff and the Pirates haven't.

Johnson and Meadows To Start First Clash

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—The opening of the world's series here next Wednesday will see veteran pitted against veteran, so far as the pitching is concerned.

It was announced unofficialy at Forbes Field today that Lee Meadows, be-spectacled hurler, has been selected by Manager McKechnie to oppose Walter Johnson in the opening game.

Also it was learned that Vic Aldridge, who came here in the deal with the Chicago Cubs last winter, will start the second game for the Pirates, with Ray Kremer being held ready for the third contest.

TWO 'MACS' STAR WITH MARSHALL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 5—Two ex-captains, both tackles, of East Liverpool, Ohio, high school, are making a good showing on the Marshall college varasity squad this season. Lee McKeever, leader of the high school eleven in 1922, played at right tackle, while his room mate, Don McBane, served as his understudy for the position. In 1924 McBane was chosen captain of the outfit.

The two Macs attended Bethany last year, playing the two tackles on the Bethany freshman football team. They made a fine record there, and cast their gridiron fortunes with Coach "Trusty" Tallman's green and white cohorts for the 1925 season.

The pair have been running at the two tackle positions on the second team, and show promise of crowding the varsity men, Peterson and Meredith. Both played in almost half of the opening game last Saturday.

NEW PHILLY GRIDDERS CROSS LOCALS' GOAL THREE TIMES AND WIN

Blue and White Snaps in Fourth Quarter and Visiting Combine Sends Three Runners Across Final Chalk Mark; Aerial Play Figures in all of Scoring by Fuller's Invaders; Local Line is Stone Wall.

After fighting grimly for a little more than three long quarters, hanging on with bulldog grip and consistently repulsing the invaders' attack, East Liverpool high school gridders temporarily cracked under the prolonged strain Saturday afternoon at Patterson field, and before the breach could be snapped together again, New Philadelphia high, directed by a Rockne trained mentor, crashed through with three touchdowns and a 20 to 0 conquest, their third consecutive victory of the current season.

One of the greatest football scraps staged on the local lot in recent years broke up in that final period when the cord that held the Blue and White defenders together rigidly for more than three-fourths of the battle, stretched taut against the Red and Black attackers, suddenly let go and three touchdowns filtered across the East Liverpool goal line while a crowd of more than 2,000 persons were held almost speechless with surprise.

From the start of the clash until the moments when the visitors began to cavort in East Liverpool scoring territory, it was the consensus of opinion that the battle would end in a deadlock.

Had New Philly been forced to depend solely on line plunging and flank attacks, there would have been no scoring. But a forward pass, coming at an opportune moment in one corner of the field, and another in the other corner, combined with an intercepted East Liverpool heave produced the points that defeated the Blue and White.

From the outset of the engagement, the visitors were unable to accomplish much against the East Liverpool line, even the second team, which was started against Coach Fuller's eleven, holding remarkably well against the enemy.

Statistics of the game reveal the fact that Boone's squad registered nine first downs to New Philadelphia's seven. Each of the teams made two in the first quarter. The locals added two more in the second, while the visitors were making one. Neither side was able to make a first down during the intense battle waged in the third period.

Four first downs were scored for Fuller's outfit in the final stanza while the Blue and White was getting five, the majority on forward passes hurled in the closing minutes of the contest in a vain effort to put the pigskin across the New Philly goal line.

The visitors produced a kicker in Smith, left end, who booted the ball consistently for 40 and 50 yards. Banks and English shared the kicking job for the locals and their punts frequently took the squad out of danger.

Smith, at end, and Halfback Cale were the outstanding performers for the New Philly combine. Smith received the pass from Quarter Mathias in the final period that started Fuller's eleven off on its scoring spree. It was a neat fling in the west corner of the lot and Smith, open, had little trouble going over. Guard Haney was responsible for the second score. An East Liverpool forward pass, almost under their own goal posts, was intercepted by Haney who plunged a few yards to count. The third six point marker ensued when Halfback Cale bagged one of Pearch's tosses in the corner of the lot and circled several defense men.

Captain Paul English was the local eleven's foremost offense star. In the opening period he made an 11-yard gain around right end and in the second period he reeled off 22 on a fake from punt formation. Allison and Rieble hit the line for consistent small gains and Quarter Shaffer's forwards figured to a great extent in the team's ground gaining.

Perry and R. Shaffer, ends, played their customary stalwart game, their defensive tactics cutting down the invaders time after time, aided by Tackles Bough and Banks. The center trio of McKim, Larkins and Kinsey comprised the remainder of the Blue and White forward wall that checked the New Philly rushes.

First Quarter.

The East Liverpool second team took the field and lined up for the kickoff. Kirkham booted the ball to Right Tackle Gilgen who fumbled and Todd recovered on the New Philadelphia 40 yard line. Unable to gain, Kirkham kicked, the visitors taking possession on their 15. Smith, punting for New Philly, returned the boot to midfield. McVey lost five yards at tackle. Kirkham fumbled and recovered back of the line of scrimmage. East Liverpool was penalized five yards for offside play. Kirkham punted to New Philly's 35 yard line where the receiver took it on a fair catch. Enold made four at left tackle. Cale was stopped at center, Enold broke through for a 22 yard gain, being brought down by Heddleston. It was the first real scoring threat of the game. Cale made three at right tackle and Ladrich four at right guard. Boone's second team was replaced by the regulars. Ladrich was stopped at right guard and Winspear on the fourth down, missed a try for a drop kick. The ball came back to the 20 in possession of the Blue and White.

English reeled off 11 yards around right end Allison failed to gain at tackle. Banks got off a long punt which rolled to the New Philly 32 yard line before the defense captured it. Smith returned the punt, the ball going out of bounds on the East Liverpool 20 yard mark. The locals were assessed a five yard offside penalty. Banks booted to the 35 yard line and Cale, taking the punt, ran it back to the 25, being toppled, out of bounds, by English. Cale made five on a criss cross around left end and Winspear added four at right tackle. Ladrich advanced the ball five more yards from fake kick formation. On the next play he fumbled but recovered, losing a couple of yards. Larkins stopped Cale in his tracks on the next play. The first forward pass of the game was knocked down. Winspear's next ariel attempt went wild and the locals took the ball in the shadows of their own goal posts. Banks punted to the E. L. 38 and R. Shaffer downed the runner in his tracks. Cale lost two at left tackle. A pass at left end netted seven yards

Second Quarter.

Enold lost a yard at right end. A drop kick, from the 30 yard line, went far from its mark. English was stopped at right guard for no gain. On the next play he stepped off 22 yards from punt formation. Rieble hit a stone wall at right tackle. Banks booted out of bounds on the 20. Smith immediately returned the kick, Rieble being downed on E. Liverpool's 40. Riebel failed to gain at left end. Banks booted to New Philly's 35 yard line where the runner was stopped. Cale made a yard at left tackle. Ladrich lost a yard on a criss cross play and then kicked. Riebel being stopped on East Liverpool's 30. English hit right tackle for three yards. Shaffer was stopped at center. Banks punted to New Philly's 35 and Cale ran it back to the 48 where McKim brought him down. Enold essayed a long run around right end but his efforts to gain were fruitless. A pass was knocked down. Ladrich was stopped at left tackle. Time was taken out while officials discussed the question raised by Coach Boone as to whether the lines should have been moved, the locals contending that the first down had not been made. Play, however, was resumed with no change in the poles, the visitors failing to profit by the error, if any. The entire right side of the E. L. line swarmed in on an attempted punt and the Blue and White recovered on New Philly's 41. Riebel made a couple at right tackle. A pass to Shaffer was grounded, falling short. Another pass was knocked down. English kicked to the New Philly eight yard line and the runner was dropped almost in his tracks. Smith punted to English on the 40 and he made five yards. Allison lost a yard at right tackle. Shaffer got a nice pass and put the ball o nthe 18. English's try at a drop kick went wide. English caught Smith's punt and made 10 yards to the New Philly 40. Perry pulled down a pass for 11 yards. Two more passes were knocked down and the half ended.

Fourth Quarter.

The ball went into play on East Liverpool's 20. English was stopped at center. Rieble failed to gain at left end. New Philly blocked English's kick and the visitors recovered on the East Liverpool 15 yard line. A pass was grounded over the goal line and the ball went into play on East Liverpool's 20. English made a scant yard at right end. R. Shaffer plucked a pass from the air and took it to the 36. Another pass was grounded. Perry lost the next aerial attempt. The visitors intercepted a pass on East Liverpool's 45. Mathias, quarterback, substituting for Winspear heaved a long pass to Smith down the side of the field and the latter raced over the goal line for the first touchdown. Cale added another point with a drop kick.

The visitors booted to Shaffer on the 32, Shaffer bringing down a pass, went to the 48. The visitors intercepted the next heave and took the ball back to the 38. Enold failed to gain at right tackle. Cale made no gain at right end. Smith kicked and English was downed on his 29. For alleged unnecessary roughness, East Liverpool was penalized 25 yards, putting the pigskin within four yards of the last chalk mark. Attempting to surprise the opposition, the locals essayed a pass. It was intercepted by Haney who plunged a few yards to drop over the goal line for another touchdown. Cale missed his kick.

The visitors kicked, English being stopped on his 20. New Philly intercepted a pass and brought up on the 32. Cale was stopped at left tackle. Maloney, substituting for Ladrich, made four at left guard. Mathias tossed a pass to Cale in the corner of the field and the latter stepped a few yards over the line for the third touchdown. Cale dropkicked for the extra point.

Coach Boone sent in a number of substitutes and a forward passing attack was launched with only a minute or so to play. Several passes were successful, but the clash ended when the visitors intercepted the final fling on their eight yard mark.

HEILMAN BEATS OUT SPEAKER

Slaps Out Six Hits in Nine Times at Bat.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—By a sensational spurt in the final double header with the Browns, Harry Heilman slipped out six hits in nine tries and regained the American league batting crown last year because of trouble with his eyes. He passed Tris Speaker and finished on top with .393, or 47 points above his last years mark.

Rogers Hornsby, although not active in the last games of the season, finished far in the lead in the National league, making his sixth consecutive batting championship, thus breaking his own worlds record. His mark of .403 placed him in the trio finishing above .400 for three seasons, Ty Cobb and Jesse Burkett being the others.

Tagging The Bases

The Phils rose from last place, by virtue of being rained out, and the Cubs flopped into the opening created. The programs wound up the major league seasons. Hornsby's Cardinals, without the aid of their manager and the champion hitter and home run slugger of the season, were responsible for the Cubs final degredation.

The Pirates hit Goodwin hard and beat the Reds, 4 to 2, in the opener, but Peter Donahue all but shut them out in the second game, 4 to 1.

Mostil stole his forty second base of the season as the White Sox closed the season with a fine, old-fashioned victory over the Indians, 10 to 8.

Eaton and Cannie Lead Scorers; Each Registers Two Goals; Play is Fast.

For the second time within two weeks, the Homer Laughlin Soccer club was held to a tie in Pittsburgh Press league competition, when the locals staged a 3-3 game with the Glencoe Thistles on Saturday afternoon at Grove City, Pa.

The locals got off to a good start, scoring in the first minute of play with Cannie kicking goal. Both teams played fast football during the 10-minute interval following, with Eaton booting the first goal in for the Thistles.

Laughlin a short time later was awarded a penalty kick, but Mortenson's try went high over the goal. Eaton again went into action and his goal gave the home eleven a lead. Ferguson and Cannie subsequently launched a terrific attack on the Thistles' goal, but the home goal tender prevented scoring.

At this point the Laughlins were given another penalty kick and Plant made it good, evening the count at two apiece. The half ended a few minutes after McLidlan scored the third goal for the Thistles.

At the outset of the second half Plant missed a penalty kick. The Laughlins subsequently kept the play largely in the Thistles' home territory. The Laughlin forward wall was kicked accurately, but Harris, goal keeper, played a great game and scoring was at a premium. Cannie, following a fine drive, shot in the third goal for the Laughlin eleven and the count again was knotted. Beech made two good saves from corner kicks.

Foster played his first game of the season for Laughlin and made a favorable impression at halfback.

The lineup:

IF VETERAN IS BEATEN IN OPENER, BUCS WILL WIN, EXPERTS CONTEND

Pittsburgh Odds, in Such an Event Would Probably Soar to 8 to 5, But Even Money if he Wins; Baseball History Supports Contention That Club Which Loses First One, Usually Drops the Series; Exceptions are Few.

By Davis J. Walsh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 5.—Actuated by that spirit of strict impartiality peculiar to home towns about to indulge in one end of a world series, the local intelligentsia today came out on its it flat feet with a prediction of victory for the Pirates in the opening game. The argument has its points and so has a barbed wire fence.

However, there can be no evasion of the fact that if Pittsburgh can toss Walter Johnson behind the line of scrimmage at the outset, then Washington's immediate future will be that of the gent with a collapsible floor at his feet and a rope for a neck-tie. Johnson is the key-man of the series and on Wednesday he will unlock the door to the secret within.

The fact furnishes the answer to the pre-series situation that has made the Pirates rather unnatural favorites at odds of 6 to 5. The gamblers wanted to get their money down on the club that seems to be the majority's favorite before the odds went beyond all reason. If the Pirates beat Johnson in the opener, there will be plenty of Pittsburgh money going about with hat in hand and pleading for a home. Under such conditions, it would surprise no one if the odds soared to 8 to 5, since Johnson probably would have to turn in two victories for the Senators to win the series and he might not get a chance to pitch two more games before it was all over.

However, if Johnson wins the opener the Senators immediately would go to even money or better and the gamblers would proceed to lay off their bets at the prevailing odds, insuring them against loss. Your gambler, of course, is so called because he is a man who never gambles. He merely bets on both clubs at the proper odds and pockets a winning no matter what happens.

In any case, the club that takes the first one on the chin usually has been the loser of a world sereies, therefore, Washington can take the Pittsburgh prediction with ample justification, to wit: If Johnson beats the Pirates in the opener, the Senators will be as good as in.

Baseball history supports this contention. In the 21 years the modern world series has been played since 1903, the club that won the opening game, won the series in no less than 15 occasions, the exceptions were furnished by Pittsburgh in 1903, the Giants in 1922, the Phillies in 1915, the Yankees in 1921, the Giants in 1923 and the same outfit against the Senators last year.

However, the writer will venture this much: If the Pirates drop the first game, their cause will not be as desperate as would be that of the Senators if they lose behind Johnson. He must be right or the thing is off.

Of course, he wasn't right last year and still the Senators won. But it isn't in the book that it can be done two years straight and besides, the Giants had a two-man pitching staff and the Pirates haven't.

Johnson and Meadows To Start First Clash

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—The opening of the world's series here next Wednesday will see veteran pitted against veteran, so far as the pitching is concerned.

It was announced unofficialy at Forbes Field today that Lee Meadows, be-spectacled hurler, has been selected by Manager McKechnie to oppose Walter Johnson in the opening game.

Also it was learned that Vic Aldridge, who came here in the deal with the Chicago Cubs last winter, will start the second game for the Pirates, with Ray Kremer being held ready for the third contest.

TWO 'MACS' STAR WITH MARSHALL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 5—Two ex-captains, both tackles, of East Liverpool, Ohio, high school, are making a good showing on the Marshall college varasity squad this season. Lee McKeever, leader of the high school eleven in 1922, played at right tackle, while his room mate, Don McBane, served as his understudy for the position. In 1924 McBane was chosen captain of the outfit.

The two Macs attended Bethany last year, playing the two tackles on the Bethany freshman football team. They made a fine record there, and cast their gridiron fortunes with Coach "Trusty" Tallman's green and white cohorts for the 1925 season.

The pair have been running at the two tackle positions on the second team, and show promise of crowding the varsity men, Peterson and Meredith. Both played in almost half of the opening game last Saturday.

Autoist Is Killed While Saving Bulldog From Bee

Morristown, N. J.—Frank Reigart, sixty-one years old, of 172 Roseville avenue, Newark, president of the Electrical Alloy company of Morristown, was killed near here when a car in which he was driving with a Japanese servant and a bulldog crashed into a telegraph pole between Whippany and Hanover.

Mr. Reigart and the Japanese, Santoro Hatanaka, who was in the rear seat, each saw a bee alight on the bulldog. Both leaned over to brush it off. Mr. Reigart released his hold for a moment on the wheel and the car hit the pole. Some glass from the windshield penetrated his skull and when physicians arrived ten minutes later he was dead. The Japanese and the dog were unhurt.

Mr. Reigart was unmarried.

Cotton Substitute

Reutlingen, Germany.—Cutting of cotton imports into Germany by half may result from a new method of weaving cloth with hemp, invented by the German textile expert, Doctor Gminder. The hemp, it is expected, will replace in part the cotton formerly used in the cloth. There are about 5,000,000 acres of moorland in Germany adapted to the raising of hemp.

LEGAL NOTICE

To the Electors of East Liverpool City School District.

Notice is hereby given that the proposition to levy an additional tax, for school purposes, over and above the maximum authorized under Sections 5649-2, 5649-3A and 5649-3C General Code of Ohio and all limitations of law, be submitted to the electors of the said East Liverpool city School District at the regular election, November 3, 1925.

Said extra tax levy is declared by the Board of Education of the said East Liverpool City school district to be necessary, because by the exercise of all authority under the limitations of law, the maximum amount that can be levied for school purposes will be insufficient to meet the current expenses of the schools of said school district and it is expedient to levy additional taxes by virtue of Section 5649-4, as amended by House Bill 58, as passed by the General Assembly of Ohio and filed with the Secretary of State, April 21, 1925.

The question to be decided is whether or not a levy of not to exceed 3 mills, additional to that authorized under limitations of law, shall be made for school purposes for a period not to exceed 5 years.

Autoist Is Killed While Saving Bulldog From Bee

Morristown, N. J.—Frank Reigart, sixty-one years old, of 172 Roseville avenue, Newark, president of the Electrical Alloy company of Morristown, was killed near here when a car in which he was driving with a Japanese servant and a bulldog crashed into a telegraph pole between Whippany and Hanover.

Mr. Reigart and the Japanese, Santoro Hatanaka, who was in the rear seat, each saw a bee alight on the bulldog. Both leaned over to brush it off. Mr. Reigart released his hold for a moment on the wheel and the car hit the pole. Some glass from the windshield penetrated his skull and when physicians arrived ten minutes later he was dead. The Japanese and the dog were unhurt.

Mr. Reigart was unmarried.

Cotton Substitute

Reulingen, Germany.—Cutting of cotton imports into Germany by half may result from a new method of weaving cloth with hemp, invented by the German textile expert, Doctor Gminder. The hemp, it is expected, will replace in part the cotton formerly used in the cloth. There are about 5,000,000 acres of moorland in Germany adapted to the raising of hemp.

91— Legal Notices

To the Electors of East Liverpool City School District.

Notice is hereby given that the proposition to levy an additional tax, for school purposes, over and above the maximum authorized under Sections 5649-2, 5649-3A and 5649-3C General Code of Ohio and all limitations of law, be submitted to the electors of the said East Liverpool city School District at the regular election, November 3, 1925.

Said extra tax levy is declared by the Board of Education of the said East Liverpool City school district to be necessary, because by the exercise of all authority under the limitations of law, the maximum amount that can be levied for school purposes will be insufficient to meet the current expenses of the schools of said school district and it is expedient to levy additional taxes by virtue of Section 5649-4, as amended by House Bill 58, as passed by the General Assembly of Ohio and filed with the Secretary of State, April 21, 1925.

The question to be decided is whether or not a levy of not to exceed 3 mills, additional to that authorized under limitations of law, shall be made for school purposes for a period not to exceed 5 years.

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Edgar Poe Norris

CHAPTER 60.

The voices belonged to Shorty Smith and Louie the Rat, returning from their oasis.

"Hell, this watin' round is gettin' on me nevrves," Shorty exclaimed, throwing himself on the ground again and yawning.

"Either him or some cops," Shorty laughed.

The other man tried to smile, but gave it up, when Shorty grinned and said: "You know kidnapin' draws you a life sentence."

"I wisht we had some noospapers so we could see what theyse sayin' 'bout it."

"Plenty," Shorty laughed maliciously. He moved over so that he could rest against a tree. "I fell like takin' a nap. Wake me up in 'bout 'n hour.

"Louie got up restlessly, uneasy now as a result of his companion's humor, and began walking a round nervously. Eventually his path took him by the the window near where Amoura Ainsly stood straining her eyes through the crevices of the boards, anious for another sight of the strange man who had summoned her to the window. When she heard Louie's step she thought it was the stranger returning, and strained her eyes the more for a glimpse of him. Disappointed by the hight of one of her captors, she shivered.

"I'm cold," she said plaintively.

Louie stopped and regarded her eyes, undecided what to do. In a moment he moved on around the house. His nerves more settled now, he slid down by the tree where Shorty Smith was sleeping, unaware that he was being closely watched by a figure lying prone on the ground around the corner of the cottage. Ten minutes later he was nodding. The figure went back to the window.

"Sppist!" He had to summon Amoura again.

"Who it it?" she asked, as excited as ever, when she got to the window. Then she saw his eyes.

"You don't know me," the voice said.

"Have you come to rescue me?" she asked, deeply agitated by a spark of joy.

"Perhaps—do you need rescuing?"

The remark put her in a rage. He was making fun of her! She could see the youth now, an athletic figure, stalwart and suggestive of aggressiveness. Was this another member of the band? "I'm Amoura Ainsley, and I've been kidnaped," she choked.

The stranger emitted a low whistle! "So this is what Red Mike is up to." He crept to the edge of the house for another glimpse of the sleeping figures, then back to the window. "Wait a minute." Swiftly he circled the house, inspecting each window and door. At the rear was a low porch, over which was a small window. Quickly and skilfully he swung himself up on this, tried the window, pushed it up with some effort, and climbed in. Darkness was all about him. This, no doubt, was the attic. Closing the window, he struck a match and looked around. The sight of some old trunks black with soot, and an assortment of trash greeted him. By walking around carefully, and inspecting the floor with the few remaining matches, he found what was obviously the door to the attic. It gave way with a creak. He drew back and for a minute awaited developments. He could hear no sound, so he let himself down into a stairway which led from the lower to the upper floor of the cottage.

Two minutes later with the skeleton key he noiselessly opened the door to the room in which Amoura Ainsley was confined. She drew back as she saw him enter. He put a finger over his mouth as a sign of silence.

"Who are you?"

He did not answed as he stepped forward, and she retreated to the window. "I'll scream," she threatened.

"That would be foolish. Shh! I may be able to get you out of here." He was thinking at the moment of the $100,000 ransom mentioned in the newspaper stories of the kidnaping. Quickly he looked around the room, then found aposition in which he could crouch down without being seen from the window. "Come over here and put your back to the window, then we can talk.

Something in the young man's eyes caused her to blieve in him and obey.

"How many of them are there?" he asked first.

"I've seen three."

"I guess that's all," he sid, as if talking to himself.

"Who are you?" she asked again, more insistently than ever.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said after a moment. "I'm what the newspapers call a rum runner. I'm in this neck of the woods on—business. I've been noticing the men around this house, and I wondered what ed Mike was up to. Being curious, I investigated. And here I a m."

"Oh, please, can't you get me out of here? It—it'll be worth anything you ask.

"Red Mike is only asking $100,000," he smiled.

Annoyed by his making light of what was to her a terrible situation, she asked: "How do YOU know?"

"Oh, the newspapers are full of it."

The newspapers! Of course.

"It's the sensation of the hours," he remarked.

"My father—have you read anything about him?" she asked nervously.

"Yes. He's got so many special cops trailing you that they're falling over each other, and making it easy for Red Mike to hide you where he pleases."

"Oh, please, sir!" she pleaded, "con't you get me out of here?"

"I don't know. I'm going to try." Her eyes l ightened. "But not now. Tonight. Try to keep awake. And whatever you do don't get excited and scream at whatever you see."

Her heart was beating furiously. She could hardly speak. Fredom from this horrible nightmare dawned!

"Are you getting plenty to eat?"

She gagged "I—I can't eat it."

"Well, I'd better be going."

"Take me with ou now, PLEASE!"

"So, don't you understand! It's bread daylight outside. We couldn't get away without somebody seing us."

She sat down despondently.

With a last glance at her, he closed the door and relocked it and went out the way he had come, after carefully wiping up the socty marks of his feet on the stairway with his handkerchief.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflammed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creasote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is generally satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creo mulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

SURRENDER

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Edgar Poe Norris

CHAPTER 60.

The voices belonged to Shorty Smith and Louie the Rat, returning from their oasis.

"Hell, this watin' round is gettin' on me nevrves," Shorty exclaimed, throwing himself on the ground again and yawning.

"Either him or some cops," Shorty laughed.

The other man tried to smile, but gave it up, when Shorty grinned and said: "You know kidnapin' draws you a life sentence."

"I wisht we had some noospapers so we could see what theyse sayin' 'bout it."

"Plenty," Shorty laughed maliciously. He moved over so that he could rest against a tree. "I fell like takin' a nap. Wake me up in 'bout 'n hour.

"Louie got up restlessly, uneasy now as a result of his companion's humor, and began walking a round nervously. Eventually his path took him by the the window near where Amoura Ainsly stood straining her eyes through the crevices of the boards, anious for another sight of the strange man who had summoned her to the window. When she heard Louie's step she thought it was the stranger returning, and strained her eyes the more for a glimpse of him. Disappointed by the hight of one of her captors, she shivered.

"I'm cold," she said plaintively.

Louie stopped and regarded her eyes, undecided what to do. In a moment he moved on around the house. His nerves more settled now, he slid down by the tree where Shorty Smith was sleeping, unaware that he was being closely watched by a figure lying prone on the ground around the corner of the cottage. Ten minutes later he was nodding. The figure went back to the window.

"Sppist!" He had to summon Amoura again.

"Who it it?" she asked, as excited as ever, when she got to the window. Then she saw his eyes.

"You don't know me," the voice said.

"Have you come to rescue me?" she asked, deeply agitated by a spark of joy.

"Perhaps—do you need rescuing?"

The remark put her in a rage. He was making fun of her! She could see the youth now, an athletic figure, stalwart and suggestive of aggressiveness. Was this another member of the band? "I'm Amoura Ainsley, and I've been kidnaped," she choked.

The stranger emitted a low whistle! "So this is what Red Mike is up to." He crept to the edge of the house for another glimpse of the sleeping figures, then back to the window. "Wait a minute." Swiftly he circled the house, inspecting each window and door. At the rear was a low porch, over which was a small window. Quickly and skilfully he swung himself up on this, tried the window, pushed it up with some effort, and climbed in. Darkness was all about him. This, no doubt, was the attic. Closing the window, he struck a match and looked around. The sight of some old trunks black with soot, and an assortment of trash greeted him. By walking around carefully, and inspecting the floor with the few remaining matches, he found what was obviously the door to the attic. It gave way with a creak. He drew back and for a minute awaited developments. He could hear no sound, so he let himself down into a stairway which led from the lower to the upper floor of the cottage.

Two minutes later with the skeleton key he noiselessly opened the door to the room in which Amoura Ainsley was confined. She drew back as she saw him enter. He put a finger over his mouth as a sign of silence.

"Who are you?"

He did not answed as he stepped forward, and she retreated to the window. "I'll scream," she threatened.

"That would be foolish. Shh! I may be able to get you out of here." He was thinking at the moment of the $100,000 ransom mentioned in the newspaper stories of the kidnaping. Quickly he looked around the room, then found aposition in which he could crouch down without being seen from the window. "Come over here and put your back to the window, then we can talk.

Something in the young man's eyes caused her to blieve in him and obey.

"How many of them are there?" he asked first.

"I've seen three."

"I guess that's all," he sid, as if talking to himself.

"Who are you?" she asked again, more insistently than ever.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said after a moment. "I'm what the newspapers call a rum runner. I'm in this neck of the woods on—business. I've been noticing the men around this house, and I wondered what ed Mike was up to. Being curious, I investigated. And here I a m."

"Oh, please, can't you get me out of here? It—it'll be worth anything you ask.

"Red Mike is only asking $100,000," he smiled.

Annoyed by his making light of what was to her a terrible situation, she asked: "How do YOU know?"

"Oh, the newspapers are full of it."

The newspapers! Of course.

"It's the sensation of the hours," he remarked.

"My father—have you read anything about him?" she asked nervously.

"Yes. He's got so many special cops trailing you that they're falling over each other, and making it easy for Red Mike to hide you where he pleases."

"Oh, please, sir!" she pleaded, "can't you get me out of here?"

"I don't know. I'm going to try." Her eyes I ightened. "But not now. Tonight. Try to keep awake. And whatever you do don't get excited and scream at whatever you see."

Her heart was beating furiously. She could hardly speak. Fredom from this horrible nightmare dawned!

"Are you getting plenty to eat?"

She gagged. "I—I can't eat it."

"Well, I'd better be going."

"Take me with ou now, PLEASE!"

"So, don't you understand! It's bread daylight outside. We couldn't get away without somebody seing us."

She sat down despondently.

With a last glance at her, he closed the door and relocked it and went out the way he had come, after carefully wiping up the sooty marks of his feet on the stairway with his handkerchief.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflammed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creasote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is generally satisfactory in the treatment of persistant coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creo mulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Happy Is the Little Girl of 1925.

Happy Her Body and Brain.

Raise or Sell?

About Vaccination.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Copyright, 1925, by the Star Co.

The whole United States gained its freedom in 1776. It took longer for the American girl to gain her freedom.

But she has it now, happy little girl that she is, if only she could appreciate her blessings and make the most of them.

She is free from the silly notion that refinement in a woman means weakness, "vapors, fainting away easily.

The girl of 1925 is free from the monotonous slavery of the spinning wheel, although luckily she isn't free from the cradle—at least, not all the time.

There is common sense in all things, and the little mother of today is entitled to feel that she has done her duty after she has rocked the cradle for four or five different children. ather, she doesn't rock it, that's out of date, and makes the baby dizzy.

The girl of today can run, jump, dance and play all the games—tennis, golf, baseball, basketball. She outswims and outdives her brother often. She rides a horse with one leg free on either side of the horse, not with two legs wrapped up in a velvet riding habit on one side of the horse.

Freedom is the motto of the girl of 1925. She pays no attention to the old fogy who would advise her to go back to the log cabin, the rocking chair, the spinning wheel, the downcast eyes, the squeezed waist, and all the rest of it.

And physical freedom is only a small part of it. The glorious part of being a girl at this end of the first quarter of the twentieth century is the mental freedom.

The great Napoleon said: "I open all careers to talent." But he only meant that he opened careers to men.

Now careers are open to women as well as men. Doctor, lawyer, merchant, prince, she can choose according to the old game of button.

THREE AUTOS IN SMASH-UPS

Two Cars Collide, While Another Hits Bridge.

Automobiles belonging to Charles Stephens and Edward Wilson crashed at the bend in the road, north of Rock Camp on the Lincoln highway, in Madison township, at 8 o'clock last night, but no one was injured.

Stephens was driving south when he struck the rear end of Wilson's car, a coupe, going north. He claimed that he was blinded by Wilson's headlights. The collision caused Stephen's car to swerve against the guard fence, damaging it. Wilson, according to Stephen's was driving with three persons in the front seat of his machine.

Stephen's car was brought here by the McElravy wrecker. Wilson's machine was driven away under its own power.

An automobile belonging to Willard J. Davidson, Wellsville, crashed against the side of the Long's Run bridge, north of Stop 55, yesterday afternoon while headed toward East Liverpool. The car was badly damaged, but the driver escaped injury.

TWO CHILDREN BADLY BURNED IN SALSBURY SCHOOL BLAST

BOTH MAY DIE

Third Pupil Mistakes Explosive for Oil, no Fire Damage.

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Barker, of New Salsbury, near Irondale, were probably fatally burned at 8 o'clock this morning when their clothing caught fire following a gasoline blast in the school house there.

The two boys, about 13 and 11 years of age, respectively, attended the New Salsbury school. They were standing before the school stove while a third lad was starting a fire.

Mistaking a can of gasoline for kerosene, the third youngster is said to have poured the explosive on the fire. The blast followed, the flames enveloping the Barker children.

The third youth rushed the two lads to the creek, near the school, and threw water upon them to extinguish the flames.

D J. D. Rice of Irondale was summoned and the two victims were brought to the City hospital here in automobiles.

F. R. M'LAIN SHOT AS HE ASSISTS PASSENGER; GEORGE ANDERSON HELD

Automobile Dealer is Bound Over to Court Without Bond on Murder Charge as Result of Fatal Climax of Cab Trip From Sales Room to Home in Second and Jackson Streets.

AUTOMATIC REVOLVER IS FIRED AS DRIVER HELPS MAN TO BEDROOM

"There Was No Provocation for Shooting" is Statement Made to Police and Others by Victim at Hospital Before he Lapses Into Unconsciousness Saturday Night.

Frank R. McLain, 25, fleet manager for the McLain Yellow Cab company, is dead today, as a result of being shot through the body with a 45 calibre automatic revolver while assisting, police say, a passenger.

Charged with murder George ("Punk") Anderson, 43, automobile dealer and former college football star, is a prisoner in the county jail at Lisbon, awaiting grand jury action.

Anderson, who pleaded not guilty and waived a hearing when arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown, Sunday afternoon, was bound over to court without bond.

McLain died in the City hospital at 4:20 o'clock Sunday morning, about five hours after the shooting which occurred in Anderson's bedroom at the home of his aunt, Miss Elizabeth M. Anderson, Second and Jackson streets.

Before lapsing into unconsciousness, McLain told Police Captain Mason Conley, Desk Sergeant George Toland and others who were at his bedside, that "there was no provocation for the shooting," police said.

Anderson, police said, was found leaning over the body of the wounded man when, they, in answer to a telephone call, arrived at the Anderson home at 11:15 o'clock Saturday night. Police said he was trying to check the flow of blood.

McLain, according to Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, told Captain Conley and Desk Sergeant Toland that his passenger shot him.

"Never mind; get a doctor," it is claimed, was the prisoner's answer, when police asked what caused the shooting.

McLain was removed to the hospital in the Miller ambulance, while Anderson was taken to jail in a private automobile driven by City Jail Turnkey W. A. Cline.

Questioned Sunday by his counsel, Anderson is said to have replied:

Shooting Follows Taxicab Call.

According to Albert McLain, owner of the McLain Yellow Cab agency, the fatal shooting followed a call for a taxicab which he received over the telephone at 10:50 o'clock Saturday night.

DETAIN BOY AS COURT WITNESS

William Richards to Testify in Hold-up Trial.

William Richards, 18 years old, of 1014 St. Clair avenue, was held by Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, Saturday, as a material witness against Ralph Eugene Coleman, Oak street, who was indicted at the last term of the grand jury for the robbery of the Park Way filling station, Park way and Dixonville roads.

Richards, who has been sought by the police since the arrest of young Coleman at Belpre about two weeks ago, was apprehended at a local pottery. He was taken to Lisbon, Sunday, awaiting Coleman's trial, which is scheduled for tomorrow. Police are searching for a third man, who is believed to know something of the hold-up.

Police say that Coleman, Richards and the third suspect, who has not yet been located, are friends. Richards, it is claimed, was not implicated in the filling station robbery which occurred last May 16.

Richards is to be detained pending a police investigation.

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES AND OTHER GOOD ROADS ADVOCATES ENDORSE PROPOSED $950,000 BOND ISSUE TO BE SUBMITTED TO COUNTY VOTERS

The proposed $950,000 bond issue for road building in Columbiana county was endorsed by the various boards of township trustees and other good roads advocates at a meeting held in common pleas court room No. 2, Lisbon, Saturday.

As a result of this session, road meetings are to be held in every township in the county within the next few weeks for the purpose of uring support of the proposal.

The county-wide program, pledged by the commissioners, and which will link ever city, village and hamlet in the sub division with a good highway, proposes the construction of 72.88 miles of road. With the building of 21.36 miles of highway from money derived from the gasoline excise tax and other sources this will mean 94.24 miles of new roads within three years.

More than 150 men, including trustees and other representatives from each district, attended the session.

The purpose was to discuss the primary road system outlined by the commissioners, as well as the secondary program proposed by township trustees under the provision of the Green law.

Discuss Secondary Road System.

Trustees of adjoining townships will confer relative to the most plausible secondary program.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk was chairman of the meeting. At the opening of the session, each board of trustees was handed a small township road map. These maps were compared with large county maps prepared for the occasion. The trustees then designated upon their small maps roads of first and second importance. After further discussion, these maps are to be returned to the commissioners, signed by the trustees, and the roads designated are to be classed as a group to be improved under the provisions of the Green law.

This secondary road program is to be followed by the commissioners and the trustees with a plan to give rural communities additional outlets to improved roads and also to the roads that are to be built under the proposed bond issue.

Green Law is Explained.

Carl L. Van Voorhis of Mt. Vernon, field engineer of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, explained the provision of the Green law. The last legislature appropriated a million dollars to be used during two-year term among the 1,400 townships of the state. Under this law, the township trustees are to put in $500 per mile, which the county commissioners and the state will match. Where a township is unable to pay, the law provides that the commissioners may assume any part of the cost of the road.

When the trustees make application to the commissioners under the Green law for aid for road building, the commissioners, in turn, file the application with the state auditor. This money is then forwarded to the county auditor, and is placed to the credit of that particular road on the books of the county treasurer. The township trustees themselves do not spend the money.

The type of road to be built under the provisions is opitional with the trustees and the commissioners, it was explained by Van Voorhis.

Yellow Creek township is the first township in the county to apply for this class of state aid, and its secondary road system program will be filed with the commissioners within the next few weeks.

The entire morning session was taken up with the discussion of the provisions of the Green law and the outlining of a secondary road system.

L. M. Kyes Outlines Program.

At noon, the trustees and other guests were entertained at dinner by the Pythian Sisters in the Knights of Pythias hall, the gathering being the first of the character ever held in the county.

L. M. Kayes f East Palestine opened the afternoon meeting with an explanation of the primary road program outlined by the commissioners.

They have worked out a general road system instead of patch-work," Kyes explained. "We cannot refuse the state and federal road aid that has been offered Codumbiana county. When you come to consider that two-thirds of the taxes collected in this county come from the cities and municipalities and only one-third from the rural sections, it is easy to see where the rural territory is going to benefit.

"This is the cheapest bond issue ever known in the history of Columbiana county. It is unlike any other You must understand that when we approve this bond issue at the polls, it does not mean that $950,000 bonds are to be sold immediately. The bonds will be sold when the contracts for the roads are awarded. This road program is going to attract the biggest contractors in the country. It will mean close bidding, and close bidding means the county will save in construction cost, and it may follow that it will not be necessary in time to issue the entire issue of $950,000. Perhaps only $900,000 will be needed to complete the program over the period of years The law provides that no bonds can be issued until the contract has been awarded, and then only at the cost of the contract.

"We owe the county commissioners our united support in this matter, and it is up to us to go back to our home districts and boost the road bond issue until the last vote is placed in the ballot box. Every township in the county is to benefit by this program. It is the greatest that has ever been designed or worked out, and Columbiana county will be enriched greatly after the entire system has been completed, and every part of the county connected by an improved road."

Trustees Laud Plan.

"It's the best program ever developed," was the comment of Lawrence H. Copeland of Millport, "and I for one want to see it go through."

"I'm only sorry that all farmers in the county could not have heard the address of Mr. Kyes," said Fred George of Madison township. "I want to see good roads all over this county. I know what good roads means to the farmer."

"No fair minded person could oppose this road bond proposition," S. M. Van Blaricorm of Perry township said. "The low tax rate that this $950,000 bond issue will carry is as simple as A, B, C. I want to see the bond issue go over big."

"What Mr. Kyes said meets with my approval and also the approval of the people of Middleton township."

STOLEN AUTO IS RECOVERED

Local Police Aid in Search for Coraopolis Car.

Coraopolis police, with the co-operation of Wellsville authorities, Sunday advanced another stage in their widespread search for the band of automobile thieves who a week ago held up a Coraopolis garage and escaped with two cars, with the finding last night of the second car that figured in the escapade, abandoned along the road between Mingo Junction and New Alexandria, Jefferson county.

The automobile was located by Wellsville authorities and this morning was given over to Coraopolis officials here. All but one of the suspects have been arrested.

The band of thieves entered the Coraopolis garage late Sunday night a week ago, held up the night watchman and drove out with two automobiles. As they sped away in the cars, the watchman opened fire on them and one of the group was wounded.

One of the cars, a Peerless, was found near Pittsburgh and several members of the gang later were rounded up near the Southside, Pittsburgh. Tracing the other car and its occupants, police found the wounded member of the band in a Youngstown hospital. Here, for several days the search was held up. Saturday Chief of Police Fultz, who several days ago had been informed of the robbery, learned than an abandoned automobile had been seen near Mingo Junction. Accompanied by Mayor J. S. Barnes and Officers Pugh and Excell, he conducted a search and found the machine, which was still in good condition. There was a bullet mark on one of the doors of the car, a Jewett coupe, a few inches below the glass window.

Coraopolis police claimed the car this morning.

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years an Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Mathews Mdl. store or any druggists.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years — when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why, get your money back.

PENNSY WILL BE ENGINEERS' HOST

The Pennsylvania railroad will be host on October 5, 6 and 7 to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, which will hold its annual meeting at Altoona, Pa. It has been 42 years since the society met in Altoona. Its membership now includes 18,000 engineers organized into 67 local sections throughout the country.

In addition to important technical discussions and addresses of general interest one of the features of the meeting will be an operating demonstration of a large electric locomotive at the Pennsylvania railroad's test plant in the Altoona shops, the largest railroad shops in the world. This locomotive is the first of its kind to be so tested. The visiting engineers will thus have an opportunity to observe methods of measuring the operating characteristics of one of the newest of railroad engines. The test plant at Altoona has been one of the important factors in the development of steam and electrical locomotives on the system. The formal program of the meeting will open on Monday, October 5, at the Penn Alto hotel, where the members of the society and their guests will be welcomed by Elisha Lee, vice president in charge of operations of the Pennsylvania railroad. At this meeting, too, honorary membership in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will be conferred on General William Wallace Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The session on Tuesday will be opened by an address by Samuel Rea, retired president of the Pennsylvania, who will discuss transportation in its physical, economic, financial and legislative phases and give his views on the future of railroad transportation in this country. A paper on the locomotive testing plant and its influence on steam locomotive design will be read by Lawford P. Fry who will deal with the history of locomotive testing plants and the progress in locomotive design which they made possible.

Mr. Samuel P. Rush, president of the Buckeye steel casting company will address the meeting on Tuesday on the transportation industry. Wednesday there will be addresses by Albert J. County, vice president in charge of treasury, accounting and corporate work of the Pennsylvania Railroad and by Dr. M. E. McDonnell, the railroads chief chemist who will present a paper on rust proofing of metals.

FINDS KAPPA DRACONDISH IS NOW ORDINARY STAR

Northfield, Minn.—Leading American scientists, carrying valuable research results, some of them based on observation made of the 1925 solar eclipse, gathered here for the thirty-fourth annual convention of the American Astronomical society.

Among the approximately thirty astronomers from various parts of the country present were several who failed to view the January 24 phenomenon because of generally unfavorable weather conditions. For their benefit the more fortunate scientists presented papers dealing with various phases of the celestial scene.

Prof. Oliver J. Lee of Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, at Williams Bay, Wis., who after setting up an elaborate observatory at Iron Mountain, Mich., found the precious display obscured by clouds, read a paper on the stars, dealing specifically with "Symmetries in Parallax Programs."

Professor Lee in his paper stressed the need of "democratic interest in the general run of stars." He pointed out that "the parallax material we now have contains various symmetries which make it dangerous to reason about the structure of the universe from it."

Bones of Many Camels Unearthed in Wyoming

The skull, limb bones and neck of one of these animals has been discovered by Paul C. Miller, curator of the Walker museum, at the University of Chicago, and these bones, together with 1,600 pounds of miscellaneous fossils found in the Miocene and Oligocene areas of Nebraska, Wyoming and South Dakota are being shipped back to the museum for more extended study.

U. S. Produces Paper From African Grass

Washington. — Paper made from esparto, an African wild grass, has been produced by the bureau of standards on a commercial basis and samples have been made available to American industry as a government test.

It has been only recently that esparto could be imported into this country at a cost permitting its commercial use.

The bureau's report shows that the imported grass pulp, after cleaning, gave a 60 per cent yield of paper-making fiber which produced paper stronger than the soda pulp product of this country.

Mother! Don't "Physic" a Child

DR. CALDWELL AT AGE 83

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Montigello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Quaker Filet Always in Style

Fashion Says "Net Curtains"

Homemakers are fast turning to net (or lace) as the most delightful, as well as satisfactory, curtaining.

Because a well made net has that dignity and character essential in an adequate window covering.

Another big factor is the transparency of net. No woven fabric gives so decorative an effect with so little obstruction to the view from the window.

New Oldsmobile Six Captures Two National Records

Two records over the most gruelling courses in the nation have been captured by a new Oldsmobile Six stock car. Within a week a brand new car taken from a shipment from the factory smashed all previous records on the Pikes Peak and the Lookout Mountain-Bear Creek Canon runs.

These two routes are considered the hardest road tests possible to apply to any automobile. They embrace grades, tortuous curves and switchbacks, steep descents and short stairways where quick acceleration is imperative if record time is to be made. As a result of the natural handicaps to be encountered, every part of an automobile is called upon to give maximum service—pulling power, speed, quick pick-up, roadability, stamina of chassis, and positive and strong steering and breaking power.

The new Oldsmobile has been driven less than 2,000 miles when it was started over the Lookout Mountain route with Floyd Clymer of Denver driving. It was a regular stock car except that the top had been removed to decrease wind resistance.

The Lookout Mountain and Circle route is 57 miles long and contains 412 dangerous curves, many of them of the "hairpin" variety. The entire run was one hour, 16 minutes and nine seconds.

On Sept. 5, one week later, Clymer piloted the Oldsmobile up the Pike's Peak course in 28 minutes, 49 seconds, the fastest ever made by a stock car. This run is 12 1-2 miles long and the grade rises approximately a mile in that distance. The elevation is 9,150 feet above sea level at Crystal Falls, where the run starts, and is 14,109 feet at the summit of the mountain. In one two-mile stretch the elevation rises 995 feet, which is 203 feet higher than the Woolworth building in New York City.

Road Bond Issue Is Endorsed

The importance of the proposed $950,000 bond issue, which the Columbiana county commissioners will submit to the electors on Tuesday, November 3, for the purpose of paying the county's share of the compensation, damages and expenses of improving a network of roads, is emphasized by the endorsement of the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber has approved the program which will require less than one mill taxes outside the limitations to pay the interest on the bonds and retire them at maturity within a maximum period of 10 years.

If the plan is approved by 55 per cent of the voters, the commissioners propose to improve the Homeworth-North Georgetown, Moultrie-Star County Line, North Georgetown-Salem, Columbiana-New Waterford, Rogers-Negley, Eldton-Clarkson, Lisbon-Salineville, Summitville-Salineville-Lincoln highway, Salem-Hanover, Leetonia-Washingtonville, East Palestine-East Liverpool, Youngstown-East Liverpool and Wellsville-Salineville roads.

This is undoubtedly the most extensive road improvement program ever contemplated by Columbiana county, as it will link every nook and corner of the sub-division with a good highway. It means that the Ohio river county will assume its place as one of the most progressive units of the state.

Support of the plan is sound business judgment, for the state and nation, through the highway departments, are expected to match dollars with the county, with the result that approximately $2,220,000 will be available for road building.

Earning In College

Parents and prospective college students may be interested in the statement of a Standard Oil official who was asked what qualities he expected in young men he hired. He explained that if he had to pick 50 employes from a college graduating class and had only five minutes to do it in, he would ask all those who had earned one-third or more of their college expenses to step to one side. These are ones he would be interested in.

If there were more than the 50 he needed, he would ask them to divide themselves into the following groups: Those who had worked at any jobs that came to hand, and those who had tried to find jobs in line with their scholastic interests and with the work they hoped to take up after graduation. He would take his first choice from those boys of the second group who had shown "discrimination and judgment" in their undergraduate job-seeking.

Under proper conditions working one's way through school is no disgrace, no hardship, no handicap. It is far more likely to be of genuine help in more lines than the one of financial relief.

Jap-Yank Trouble-Makers

A Japanese business man who has come from Kobe to buy American goods gives a refreshing view of the Japanese attitude toward America.

He starts with a mild complaint. "Every time I wanted to go to the theater in San Francisco," he tells an eastern reporter, "the ticket seller sent me up near the ceiling. I don't believe you do that here.

"But," he adds, "you can't blame them in California, for they get the poorest class of Japanese, and judge the rest by that class."

As for sentiment at home, he says that immigration restrictions in America against Japanese have not caused resentment or agitation in any but the middle class in his country.

"And that class never comes to America anyway," he says. "That's the whole trouble between the two nations. The ones that make all the fuss don't know what they are talking about." Which is probably "more than half true," as Mark Twain used to say.

The Spread Of Evil

The floor in a ten-cent store was scrubbed clean, as it should have been. But one spot near the entrance was not dried. A woman customer slipped and fell there, and hurt her hip. She sued the store. Now the store has to pay her 150,000 dimes in damages, the profits from several hundred thousand sales.

It was a little thing, that store's offense, and entirely unforseen. That is the difficulty with this complicated modern life of ours.

In primitive times, when one person did another a wrong, intentional or unintentional, it was a definite, concrete, demonstrable thing. Now a wrong of commission or omission may be inflicted on any one of millions when the wrong-doer has never been seen. It may be felt far away, and long after the doer has forgotten what he did.

The compensating fact is that if evil spreads in this distressing way, good does likewise. Never was the power for good so great as it is today.

Still, China serves a useful purpose in the international system. As long as the powers can knock her around they don't get into more serious deviltry.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—Diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and came an invitation from Achmed Abdullah, the tayle writer, to join him and others in esoteric mysteries of sipping Turkish coffee on a fifteenth century Bokhara rug. And perhaps gaze at a twentieth century fire escape.

To walk with my dog and a great crowd in front of an uncompleted building in East Thirty-ninth street, a steel worker having fallen 10 floors and all workers were quitting for the day, which I am told is the custom following accidents.

In the evening Monta Bell came and Adolph Menjou, the cinema player, and Menjou told of having once been so low in funds he lived in a Mills hotel and I found him pleasant, modest and well spoke and we all sat talking until long after midnight. So to bed.

The Black Belt in Harlem gave a quiet dinner one night recently to celebrate the reprieve from death in the electric chair granted "Yellow Charleston" who shot and killed Barron Wilkins, black and tan cabaret proprietor. Barron Wilkins was a despotic ruler of the Black Belt's underworld. He was feared and despised. When "Yellow Charleston," a shuffling figure primed with drugs and gin, pistoled him to death denizens of the Dark Continent exhaled a collective sigh of relief. "Yellow Charleston" was regarded more as a liberator than a murderer. A second reprieve was denied "Yellow Charleston" and he was later electrocuted.

Barron Wilkins was a shiny ebonied Beau Brummel. When he walked along the Lenox boulevard crowds fell away from his path like wheat before a scythe. His teeth gleamed with gold an dhe had a vest that sparkled with chip diamond buttons. He was reputed to traffic in white women and his political pull was said to be great, his jazz joint was a focal poin for downtown slummers. When bullets crumpled him to the sidewalk he murmured, "They finally got me"—and grinned.

Men who follow Nietzsche's advice in living hard and dangerously as a rule do not die gamely. They claw at the air and whine for assistance. An ambulance surgeon tells of reaching a dare devil gangster stretched out in a pool of blood on Fourteenth street. His eyes were glazing. "Save me, doc," he pleaded, "I want to go straight." It was too late.

Masculine vanity. A side street haberdasher was doing slim business. He had only one mirror in his shop. He lined the walls with mirrors and is enjoying a flourishing trade.

One sometimes wonders how the hundreds of taxi drivers manage to make a living—especially those who drive dilapidated cabs. Yet they do. They do not follow beaten paths for one thing. Dining in an obscure place, several padlocks up the block of a side street, I saw 10 of them pick up fares one after another as they waited out front. They realize that perhaps diners having dined a little unwisely but well, are likely to feel rich enough to indulge a cab. In such event they are not particular and take the first cab in sight.

Wit megaphoned from a dollar sightseeing bus: "The only difference between the regular Fifth avenue but and our is 90 cents."

From Forty-second street to Fifty-ninth in mid-town there are said to be 300 speakeasies which wear various disguises from ordinary tea rooms in chintz to private apartments with butler service.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

MacMillan Studies Norse Ruins.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—Landing at Hopedale, Labrador, the MacMillan Arctic expedition, upon its return after being checked in its quest for the unknown continent of the north, stopped to investigate what are purported to be Norse ruins in the region. These ruins, and others which appear in various places along the eastern coast of America, have given rise to questions which have been the source of heated arguments for many years. The big item in the controversy is whether the Norsemen reached America prior to the landing of Columbus.

Purely hypothetical arguments have been advanced on both sides. There have been those who said that the Norsemen were here because certain of their words had been discovered in the language of the Dakotah tribes; that the Iroquois nations showed unmistakable traces of the Norse laws; that Indian traditions spoke of white-skinned and fair-haired people who emerged from the great sea, and that even as far south as Mexico Indian tradition spoke of people who answered the description of the Norsemen. But other students have disregarded these arguments because they were open to doubt. The MacMillan expedition hopes to solve the question through its perusal of the ruins in Labrador.

Those who declare the Norsemen reached America long before Columbus have one great source to reply upon. This is composed of the sagas. These sagas, finding their origin in the ancient Norse style of literature, were sung about the countries to the west and about the wonders of these countries. From theg a great amount of information is gathered, all of which tends to prove that the Vikings heached American and even settled here, their colonies fourishing for some time, and finally atrophying and dying out.

The impulse to move westward was the result of a nationalistic movement in the Scandinavian countries, Norway in particular. This movement, fostered by a line of kings, succeeded in suppressing the bold Vikings and establishing a suzerainty over the country.

Would Not Have a King.

The Vidkings, who had subjugated Normandy, invaded Germany, founded Russia, protected the Roman Emperor at Byzantium by suppiying him with guards, and done many other notable things, refused to submit to such a task-master as king. Above all they were independent and valued freedom above their lives. Hence they left their native heath and took to the sea in their dragons, relying on the stars and their ravens to guide them.

The sagas tell that one Ari Maarson, on such an expedition, sighted the American continent. He was blown westward by a terrific gale which defied his oars and he sighted a strange land of forests and hills and pleasant beaches. What it was he old no tknow, but he gave it the name of Hvitramannaland, which unpronounceable appellation, when reduced to plain English, means Great Ireland. What happened to this daring mariner is unknown, but here again the sagas offer an explanation. They relate that he was received by the Indians as a messiah, the coming of whom had been foretold by their prophets, and who was described as having fair hair and white skin, through which the blood might be seen coursing. The ruddy complexion of the Norsemen might well have answered this description.

It is further related that he was rescued by his kinsmen and that the Indians again awaited his coming and were satisfied with the shipwreck of another Norseman who stayed with them until his death.

Several years after Ari came Frik Thorvaldsson the Red, outlaw, pirate, warrior, who refused to bow to the sceptre of the king. He settled in Greenland, naming it so in order to attract others. This was about 984 or 986 A. D. There were two settlements effected, one near the modern Julianehaab, about 100 miles around Cape Farewell, and another, near the modern Godthaab, about 300 miles further up the west coast. These settlements flourished for centuries, became Christian, and were given bishops who acted in that capacity there, until, at the beginning of the fifteenth century they appear to have vanished.

Erik was followed by his intrepid son, Leif Eriksson, Leif the Lucky, who, having heard of the land to the west, set sail in the year 1000 to find out about it. It is presumed that he reached the coast of Labrador and was not pleased with it. He named it Helluland. Cruising southward he came some days later to a country he called Markland, supposed to be the modern Nova Scotia or Cape Breton. From thence he came further south until, if the sagas are to be believed, he landed in New England, where he built his famous landing booths, and called the country Vinland the Good.

Son Killed By Indians.

Leif returned to Greenland and told his tale and in 1002, Thorald, youngest son of Erik, in company with a large group of adenturers, set sail for Vinland. The sagas say they reached New England, where Thorvald was killed in a battle with the Skraellings, a term applied to the Indians. He was buried at Cross Cape and the expedition returned home. Thornstein, eldest son of Erik, then set out for Vinland, accompanied by his wife, Gudrid. They met unfavorable weather, however, and were blown back to Greenland, where Thornstein succumbed to a plague.

An Icelander, Thorfinn Karlsefni, sojourning in Greenland, met and married Gudrid, a year or so later. He heard of the land of the grape, where all was beautiful, and, bering a merchant, elected to go to it in order to increase his wealth. He set sail in 1007, accompanied by his wife and Freydis, Erik's daughter, her husband and a company of 160. They are supposed to have founded a colony, but dissension arose between Freydis and Gudrid, the Skraellings attacked them, and, after trying times, they returned home.

Freydis, the Baerserker, seems to have been an evil genius. She returned, with her husband, together with two Norwegians, who were brothers, to Vinland. She aspired to be queen, and, after hopeless dissension, due to her vain schemes, had separated the Norwegian brothers, Helgi and Finnbogi, from her colony, she incited an attack on them and their company. Freydias is said to have murdered the brothers with her axe as they slept, while her men fell on their followers and slew them. Finally she stood to survey her bloody work, when she espied five women, whom her men had spared. She coldly proceeded to cut them down with her axe, thus annihilating her enemies.

She returned to Greenland with her husband, where her brother Leif heard of her evil deed. He banished them from the settlement, forbidding any one to speak to them, look at them, or give them shelter. They fled to the desolate ice plateau where they died a miserable death.

Such are the sagas concerning the family of Erik. They point to the fact that America was discovered by the Norsemen, centuries before the birth of Columbus. Likewise other sagas tell of the Norsemen in Mexico seeing Popocatepetl smoking in the distance, of exploring a river answering the description of the Potomac, and of many other things. The opponents of the theory declare that these things could have happened in other lands closer home. The MacMillan expedition may find the key to the answer in Labador and settle the question once and for all.

THREE HOLD-UP MEN DIE WHEN GUN ANSWERS "STICK 'EM UP"

Proprietor of Resort Near St. Louis Does Shooting.

TWO PALS FLEE

Another Man Killed in Battle With Kansas Police.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 5.—Three of five holdup men were killed early today when their demand to "stick 'em up" was met by a volley of shots in the Quinn and Duffy resort at Little Creve Coeur Lake, near here. Tom Quinn, one of the proprietors, did the shooting, police reported.

One of the dead men was identified as Vincent Goedde, who had a long police record. One of his dead comrades was Don Hoffman and the third had not been identified.

declared A. A. Galbreath. "Every taxpayer in this county should approve the $950,000 road bond issue. The proposition is fair and square on all sides. Those who oppose the issue ought to stick in the mud for the next 20 years. To be fair, you must support this issue. Middleton township should make it 100 per cent, and we're making a big mistake if we do not. The issue should go over the top two to one."

"The road bond issue is going to be a big success," said J. M. Johnson, of the Franklin township trustees.

J. M. Kerr Urges Support

"This is the greatest meeting of the kind ever held in our county," J. M. Kerr, of the Yellow Creek township trustees, said. "This road program as worked out by the commissoiners is the best I ever heard of, and we stand four-square behind the proposition. We should thank the commissioners and the county surveyor for working out such a program, and at such low cost. We should all go back home, take our coats off and begin to work for the success of this bond issue and road program as we never worked before. It's a wonderful thing for this county."

Frank A. Graupner, of the Washington township board, declared that the people of Columbiana county should feel grateful to the commissioners and the county surveyor for working out the primary road program. "We should show our appreciation by going back home and getting back of this bond issue. It means much for our county."

It was also explained during the meeting that Wayne county, Michigan, is known to have the greatest system of roads of any sub-division in the United States, and that state highway department officials have said that should the Columbiana county program go over, that Columbiana county will then be the second best good roads county in the country.

sales room; I want to go home," was the message, the elder McLain said.

The brother, he said, drove the cab to the sales room at the foot of Broadway, received his passenger and proceeded to the Anderson home.

"My brother told the police in the presence of other witnesses, said the elder McLain, "that he helped Anderson out of the cab and into the house and then up the stairs to Anderson's bedroom on the second floor.

"After putting him in the room, Frank, so he told me, turned and started to leave the room. He said that his passenger then pulled a revolver and fired.

"No words were exchanged, my brother said. There was no provocation for the shooting, Frank declared.

Accident, Says Aunt.

Miss Elizabeth Anderson, aunt of the accused, with whom Anderson has made his home for many years, today expressed the opinion that the shooting was accidental.

"George came home about 11 o'clock Saturday night," she said. "I was in bed but I arose to let him in. He was with the taxicab driver and I realized at once that he was intoxicated.

"I asked the stranger to help him into bed and the two went upstairs. For a few minutes I heard them talking but could not tell what was being said. Then I heard a shot. I rushed upstairs. In George's bedroom the driver was lying on his side on the floor.

"The light was burning. Over the wounded man stood George as if in a dazed condition. The gun was on the dresser. Mr. McLain asked me to get a doctor and George said, 'Call Dr. Bailey.' I took the gun and hurried down stairs where I hid it. I then called the doctor. By that time, neighbors, attracted by the shot, were coming in and I remember nothing else.

"I cannot believe that George purposely shot Mr. McLain. I know there was no hard feeling between the two and that he would not have done it purposely. I raised George from a boy and he was like a son to me. I cannot believe it."

Miss Anderson claimed that her nephew had not carried the revolver for she had noticed it in the drawer of the dresser in his room when she made the bed and cleaned the room on Saturday.

A neighbor, living opposite the Anderson home, said that no light was burning in Anderson's room when he heard the report of the shot.

Bullet Drills Through Body.

Drs. C. H. Bailey, W. N. Bailey and M. D. McCutcheon were called to attend McLain. In an effort to save his life, Dr. C. H. Bailey, assisted by the other physicians, performed an operation.

According to the physicians, the steel jacket bullet entered the left flank, plowed through the body and came out at a point in front of the right hip bone. The intestines were perforated 14 times as the bullet drilled through the body, it is said.

Pennsylvania Railroad Detective Fred Herline, of Wellsville, who was at city hall when a telephone call from a woman, presumably Miss Anderson, was received, advising police of the shooting, also co-operated in the investigation.

When police reached the scene Miss Anderson had taken possession of the revolver, police said.

Coroners Verdict.

In the custody of Chief McDermott, and Sheriff George Wright, Anderson was taken to the county jail yesterday afternoon after arraignment before the mayor. His only comment enroute to Lisbon was: "I am not feeling very good."

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, conducted an inquest yesterday afternoon at the MacLean morgue in Wellsville, where the body was taken. His verdict was: "Homicide by shoting."

Prisoner Was Football Star.

Anderson, w ho is divorced, is well known throughout the Ohio Valley because of his prominence in athletics. Fifteen years ago he was a star football player on the Kenyon college team and later he was a member of independent elevens in the East Liverpool district.

For the last two years he has operated a motor truck sales agency in the old Colonial hotel building, south Broadway. Prior to that he is said to have been interested in a cigar store in Wheeling, W. Va.

Funeral Services Tuesday.

McLain, the victim of the shooting, is a son of Jesse R. McLain, of Cream City, near Irondale. He was a member of Davidson lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Irondale.

Besides his father, he leaves a widow, nee Mildred Stewart, who before her marriage resided in Hammondsville; one son, Jesse R., Jr., three years old; three sisters, Mrs. A. A. McBane, Wellsville; Mrs. B. F. Call, Toronto, and Miss Anna McLain, of Cream City, and one brother, Albert, of East Liverpool.

The body was removed from the McLain funeral home to the father's home in Cream City late yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be held there at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, in charge of Rev. Mr. Trotter, pastor of the Irondale Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in the New Somerset Methodist Episcopal cemetery.

Because of the death of the brother the McLain Yellow Cab agency and vulcanizing shop will be closed until 6 o'clock Tuesday evening.

NAVY BARRAGE HITS MITCHELL AIR THEORIES

PROBE GOES ON

Machinery Set in Motion For Calling Court-Martial.

Lieut. Byron J. Connell, pilot of the PN-9 No. 1 plane in the unsuccessful Hawaiian flight, appeared before the president's air board, and by inference, when not directly, refuted some of Mitchell's theories.

The broad Atlantic and Pacific form a natural defense for the United States against air invasion by an enemy power, Connell said anent Mitchell's warning of "foreign air invasion."

Connell declared there were no planes at present which could fly across either ocean, armed with bombs.

"Hasn't the United States a plane which could fly 1,000 miles or 2,000 miles with bombs and return?" Connell was asked.

"We have no such plane," the pilot replied.

"Does any other nation have such a plane—one capable of flying across the Atlanic or Pacific?"

"No, sir, there is no such plane known to present day aviation."

"Is there a plane that could fly across either ocean with bombs?"

"Not without a considerable number of ships or landing stations along the route," said Connell.

Mitchell Learns Charges.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. — The machinery of the war department began to move today to disicpine Col. William Mitchell for his attacks on high ranking officials, and his criticism of the manner in which the air services are being conducted.

Shortly before 11 o'clock this morning, Mitchell reported to the inspector general of the army to be acquainted with the charges that have been preferred against him and to make such "explanation" as he cared to.

Col. Mitchell appeared at the department in civilian clothes.

Col. G. A. Nugent, acting inspector general in the absence of Maj. Gen. Eli Helmick, did the honors, which were formal and brief.

Declines To Comment.

Col. Mitchell was formally appraised of the charges against him and was asked whether he cared to make any statement of explanation, the usual procedure in the case of an officer of field rank who is to be tried by a court martial.

What, if any statement, Michell made was not disclosed. The proceedings lasted but 20 minutes, and when they were ended neither Mitchell nor Nugent would comment on the matter.

With this routine disposed of the inspector general will now draw up a report and recommend for the secre- will consist chiefly of (1) whether Mitchell has violated that article of war covering "conduct prejudicial to to good order and military discipline, (2) whether the charges against him can be proved, and (3) whether he should be tried.

TODAY

She can and she does run flying machines, conducts business, goes into politics, gets elected.

Look at the happy girl of 1925, then at her little sister of 100 years ago.

For the girl of 1775 it was get up before daybreak, work hard, go to the little school, come home again, sit around with downcast eyes waiting for somebody to marry her. Then devote the rest of her life to the thing she married, to the spinning wheel, the kitchen and the old cradle.

She is free.

She knows it, and she means to remain free.

Would you rather raise onions, or sell onions?

Out of $1 worth of onions the farmer gets 30 cents for planting, cutivating, weeding, packing, shipping; the retailer gets 54 cents for putting the onions in a bag, handing them to a customer and saying "Anything else?" The problem of this country is distribution.

What is your opinion of smallpox vaccination? In the Philippines, in old days when Spain ruled, the natives died like flies of smallpox, cholera and many diseases.

Recently under American scientific administration, the smallpox deaths were cut down to 14.30 per 10,000 of population, and since 1921, following an extensive vaccination campaign, which included vaccination of 2,132,653 persons, smallpox has been practically wiped out.

The deaths now are less than one in 100,000.

THEORIES on vaccination are interesting. But FACTS are more valuable.

Business men returning from Germany say that the poor people there wear silk—the artificial kind made from wood fiber—because they can't afford the high prices of cotton goods. That will interest cotton men in the United States.

There was a time long ago, when the cotton plant was first brought to Europe, and only the very rich could afford to wear calico. At that time also, only the rich could afford to eat the "sweet gravel" ordered by doctors' presciptions.

Now that sweet gravel, otherwise granulated sugar, is the cheapest good food that the human race possesses.

LABOR DEMAND IS INCREASING

Situation in State Reported Best in Recent Months.

Employment conditions in West Virginia as a whole are much more satisfactory than they were a month ago and it is comparatively easy for any one who desires work to find it. Such is the closing statement in a letter accompanying his monthly report written by C. M. O'Neal, examiner in charge of the federal-state employment office, to G. F. Daugherty, federal director of the employment service and state commissioner of labor.

Out of 986 applicants who registered at the offices in Charleston, Huntington and Clarksburg, 786 were placed, the report discloses.

"Employment conditions have continued to improve during the month. The improvement is not confnide to any industry, but is most noticeable in the mining industry. Though a great number of miners have come from other states, there is still a slight shortage in some of the coal fields.

The demand for common or unskilled workers is now almost equal to the supply and we are in position to offer employment to practically all those who apply here for common labor jobs. The increased demand for common or unskilled laborers is a result of increased activities in road building and some other construction work.

"The demand for clerical workers of which we always have a surplus was greater during the month than any previous month in the year. This can be attributed to improved conditions in the coal field where additional office and store men and women were needed."

Pasteurized Mothers' Milk Used to Save Babies

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

NOT long ago, I met a friend of mine who is a famous baby doctor. He conducts a series of health stations where expectant mothers are given advice and where tiny babies are guided into health and vigor.

We talked about premature and seriously under-developed babies. These are the infants whose lives are easily snuffed out and whose care is one of the perplexities of the medical profession.

Usually the mother of such an infant is frail, perhaps a semi-invalid. Her supply of breast milk is insufficient or entirely lacking.

In such cases it has been the effort of the doctor to work out a feeding, prepared from modified cow's milk. In many cases, he succeeds in saving the precious little life. Unfortunately, a proportion of such babies die in spite of the struggles of doctor and nurse.

My friend said they are having good luck in caring for premature babies by using pasteurized mother's milk. They have found a large number of mothers who have a surplus of breast milk, far more than their own babies require. The excess of milk is extracted and there are so many mothers contributing in New York City that the total daily quantity is quite amazingly large.

It is a fact well known to all baby experts that the milk of a mixed herd of cows is better than the milk of one cow, unless it happens that that one cow is perfect. For the same reason the mixed milk of this host of noble volunteers is better for the premature baby.

Great care is exercised in the selection of the mothers who are to contribute. To give every assurance of freedom from accidental contamination, however, all the milk is carefully pasteurized.

This experiment has been carried so far in New York that there can be no doubt of its efficacy. There will be prejudice against it, exactly as there was against the employment of wet nurses, but commonsense must prevail. It stands to reason that mother's milk is the right food for the puny infant and for the normal one, too. If this food cannot be had in the usual way, we should applaud any new method for giving the premature baby a chance to live.

TRAFFIC OFFICER'S STUNT DREAM REALIZED IN ARREST OF ELEPHANT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — All his life W. J. Robbins, traffic officer, had dreamed of doing something really big, but as the years rolled by and opportunity failed to knock, he began to get discouraged. Just when he had about given up hope his moment arrived. Now he has to his credit on the police blotter at least on big job, for he has arrested an elephant.

Robbins was watching traffic at a busy intersection. The red light had just flashed on when Robbins saw an elephant disentangle itself from the traffic and amble across the street. Robbins blew his whistle, but was ignored. He grasped the lead rope from the elephant's neck and towed him to the side of the street. The elephant was led to the station. Here the keeper appeared, declared the beast was just a young one and not familiar with traffic rules. On this condition it was released. And the officer was complimented for "having saw his duty and done it."

WANT TO ADOPT CHILD, AGED 12?

Who wants to adopt a child 12 years of age? asks Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

From time to time he is in receipt of applications from people who desire to adopt children, and a list of these applicants is kept on file. But here is a case where age enters into the subject.

The court is now in a position to present the case of a little girl whose parents are dead.

"I'd like to get a good home for this child," the judge said. "We want a home where she will receive the right kind of training, an education, and where she will be in a position to grow up into happy womanhood. We've got a lot of applications for babies, but we do not have an application on file now from any who are interested in a child of this age."

VOLSTEAD LAW IS BOON TO KANAKA

Sudden Demand for Vanilla Causes Prosperity.

Honolulu.—Prohibition in America has brought untold and unaccustomed wealth to the natives of the French mandated island of Bora Bora through an increase in the demand for and price of vanilla, which developed with the operation of the Volstead act in the United States.

Authority for the statement is Armstrong Sperry, a New York artist, who recently returned from the south seas. He added that, paradoxically as it may seem, the new prosperity has resulted in bankruptcy for more than one native, who hitherto had been comfortably settled in life, and the mortgage of much of the island property to Chinese merchants.

"Formerly vanilla sold at three francs a pound," said Sperry, "but now it is quoted at 75 francs. This rise is the cause of the new state of affairs and the raising of vanilla is the one industry—if it may be called that—of Bora Bora. The people simply plant it in a shady spot and wait for it to mature. It requires practically no care."

With the increased incomes, said Sperry, the tiny interisland copra steamers began to bring strange and unprecedented cargoes. Occasionally there was an automobile, sewing machine, bicycle, phonographs, cases of champagne and other liquors and barrels of Tahitian rum. When he left there were six automobiles in Bora Bora, which has only ten miles of good roads.

"There had been other machines," the artist explained, "but a number of them had been abandoned. As soon as the gasoline gives out, or anything goes wrong, the automobile is left to rust away. Some are even left on the beach with the waves washing over them. But automobiling is great fun while it lasts."

The vanilla market is in San Francisco. The natives send their beans to Papeete, whence they go to the mainland once a month.

The Chinese are the island merchants. They buy the beans from the natives, who will mortgage all they own on the chance of a good crop. Should the crop turn out to be a poor one, the Chinese get the land.

There are two motion picture theaters on the island, which show ancient movies of the West.

Natives Kill Teacher to Prevent Education

Antonio Rosca Robles, Huichel Indian, became inspired with the idea of driving illiteracy out of the Huichel country. He went to school at Guadalajara, where he studied primary education. Returning to the Huichel country, he began teaching children. The Huichel authorities warned him to stop. He refused. He was arrested and taken before a council of Huichel leaders, condemned to death as a traitor to the customs of the tribe, taken outside the village and shot, where his corpse was found by the Mexican authorities the following morning. The Huichels have always fought against civilization.

PICTURE STARS KEEP OWN OFF SILVER SHEET

Mothers and Fathers Warn Their Children Against Screen.

GRAVE PROBLEMS

Bushman, Cody, Lloyd and Kirkwood are Quoted.

Despite the appeal of the silver sheet as a path to fame and wealth, mothers and fathers who are prominent actors do not want their children to go on the stage or play before the cameras.

Claire Windsor, the blonde charmer, has a six-year old son whom she never even permits in the studios where she is engaged.

"I feel sorry for children in pictures," declared Miss Windsor. "It's nerve-wracking work and my boy won't be an actor—unless of course he insists upon it."

Francis X. Bushman has a grave problem to face.

His daughters, Virginia and Lenore, have both had a taste of cinema acting and want to continue, while Bushman insists they return to their college studies.

Calls It Hard Task.

"I'm not enthusiastic about having them follow the screen or stage," said Bushman. "It's a terrible task for women!"

Lew Cody doesn't believe in actors' children following in the steps of their parents. Lew hasn't a son or daughter but he declared there is too much grief to acting as a profession to want any relative in it."

Bill Desmond is ready to fight when it is suggested his daughter may be an actress some day.

Others, Too, Opposed.

Had Charlie Chaplin's newly arrived baby been a boy it was said he would have brought him up as not favoring a screen career for a girl.

MODERN ENOCH ARDEN LOCATES HIS SONS

Returns After 16 Years of Globe Trotting.

None of Webber's relatives had seen him since he walked from his home at Fairfield, Ill., in 1909, after disagreeing with his wife. Webber lost track of his family during his adventures and only through a chance conversation did he learn of the whereabouts of his sons. That brought him to the home of his sister, Mrs. E. B. Streseman, Huntington. Webber's father and mother reside near Andrews, Ind.

The wanderer's wife divorced him and remarried several years after his unceremonious departure.

Inflamed with anger Webber left his Fairfield home, bound for the far West. A tramp steamer set him down on a small island of the Hawaiian group. Once every six months a trans-Pacific liner stopped at Webber's island. This was the only connection with the outside world. In two years he had developed an attractive sugar plantation, literally hacking it out of the island wilderness. A syndicate bought it for more than Webber dreamed of receiving.

The far places called and Webber next appeared in Africa, where he sold supplies, worked for mining companies and speculated in various enterprises. His efforts increased his finances. Two years later he went to Brazil. Growing rubber proved profitable to him.

Finally his native land beckoned and he returned to the United States as the country went to war with Germany. For some time he worked aboard transports plying between Hoboken, N. J., and France. After the war he settled in Jackson, Tenn., becoming a building contractor.

He made several trips to Fairfield, Ill., in search of the members of his family, but his wife and sons were gone and there was no one there who knew where they were located. The boys were put in an orphanage after Webber departed and a few years later his wife remarried.

While conversing with a Jackson (Tenn.) barber Webber was told that the man knew a man of the same name at Huntington. This man turned out to be Harley Webber, son of Heyden Webber. The father went to Huntington and the sons joined him.

177,000 MILES OF U. S. ROAD IN FIVE YEARS

Federal-Aid Highways Being Completed Rapidly.

Washington.—Predicting that the entire 177,000-mile system of federal-aid highways would be completed in five years, the United States bureau of public roads here has announced the completion of a record-breaking fiscal year in which 11,829 miles of federal-aid roads were built. The total of completed federal-aid roads built since 1917 now amounts to 46,485 miles, representing a cost of $845,000,000.

This year's record-breaking progress marks the completion of more than half of the great system of interstate roads that reach every town of 5,000 people or more and put 90 per cent of the population of the United States within ten miles of an improved highway.

Much of the federal-aid system had been built when the huge program of highway development was laid out.

A billion dollars' worth of highways a year is the rate at which road builders are now working, according to the bureau's estimate. This rate is expected to remain nearly constant at least for several years, representing as it does the capacity of road-building forces in the country. That a greater volume of work could be undertaken is regarded as improbable, due to the fact that expansion of the program would have to be made at the expense of other activities.

$243,000,000 Expended.

Cost of the federal-aid system completed during the fiscal year ending June 30 is $243,000,000, of which the federal government's share amounts to $111,000,000. Under construction at the present time are 12,462 miles of federal-aid roads, most of which will be finished during 1926.

Gravel road led in the type of highway completed this year with 4,203 miles. Concrete was next, with 2,806 miles, constituting the largest paved mileage. It is significant that only 129 miles of water bound macadam, formerly the standard type, was constructed, and that 912 miles of bituminous macadam, with 341 miles of bituminous concrete and 107 miles of brick are the only other types of paved roads completed.

Graded Earth in West.

Graded earth stood third in the classification of types with 2,064 miles. Forty-seven miles of bridges were constructed.

Most of the graded and drained earth roads were built in the West, where funds are low and good-roads progress is just starting to make itself felt. The construction of graded earth roads as a foundation for a future highway system that can be improved as money becomes available and traffic increases, is a fundamental principle initiated by Thomas G. McDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, when he was chief engineer of highway forces in Iowa.

The stage construction principle, as Mr. McDonald's plan is called, consists first in making initial improvements such as grading and draining and installing permanent culverts and adequate bridges. The road is thus improved at low cost to serve the immediate necessities of light traffic. When traffic becomes heavier and it is deemed advisable to improve with gravel or a more durable surface, such as concrete, the original improvement has provided a subgrade on which the high type surface can be laid at less additional expense and with far better results than if the original work had been left undone until necessity demanded final improvement.

Blue and White Snaps in Fourth Quarter and Visiting Combine Sends Three Runners Across Final Chalk Mark; Aerial Play Figures in all of Scoring by Fuller's Invaders; Local Line is Stone Wall.

After fighting grimly for a little more than three long quarters, hanging on with bulldog grip and consistently repulsing the invaders' attack, East Liverpool high school gridders temporarily cracked under the prolonged strain Saturday afternoon at Patterson field, and before the breach could be snapped together again, New Philadelphia high, directed by a Rockne trained mentor, crashed through with three touchdowns and a 20 to 0 conquest, their third consecutive victory of the current season.

One of the greatest football scraps staged on the local lot in recent years broke up in that final period when the cord that held the Blue and White defenders together rigidly for more than three-fourths of the battle, stretched taut against the Red and Black attackers, suddenly let go and three touchdowns filtered across the East Liverpool goal line while a crowd of more than 2,000 persons were held almost speechless with surprise.

From the start of the clash until the moments when the visitors began to cavort in East Liverpool scoring territory, it was the consensus of opinion that the battle would end in a deadlock.

Had New Philly been forced to depend solely on line plunging and flank attacks, there would have been no scoring. But a forward pass, coming at an opportune moment in one corner of the field, and another in the other corner, combined with an intercepted East Liverpool heave produced the points that defeated the Blue and White.

From the outset of the engagement, the visitors were unable to accomplish much against the East Liverpool line, even the second team, which was started against Coach Fuller's eleven, holding remarkably well against the enemy.

Statistics of the game reveal the fact that Boone's squad registered nine first downs to New Philadelphia's seven. Each of the teams made two in the first quarter. The locals added two more in the second, while the visitors were making one. Neither side was able to make a first down during the intense battle waged in the third period.

Four first downs were scored for Fuller's outfit in the final stanza while the Blue and White was getting five, the majority on forward passes hurled in the closing minutes of the contest in a vain effort to put the pigskin across the New Philly goal line.

The visitors produced a kicker in Smith, left end, who booted the ball consistently for 40 and 50 yards. Banks and English shared the kicking job for the locals and their punts frequently took the squad out of danger.

Smith, at end, and Halfback Cale were the outstanding performers for the New Philly combine. Smith received the pass from Quarter Mathias in the final period that started Fuller's eleven off on its scoring spree. It was a neat fling in the west corner of the lot and Smith, open, had little trouble going over. Guard Haney was responsible for the second score. An East Liverpool forward pass, almost under their own goal posts, was intercepted by Haney who plunged a few yards to count. The third six point marker ensued when Halfback Cale bagged one of Pearch's tosses in the corner of the lot and circled several defense men.

Captain Paul English was the local eleven's foremost offense star. In the opening period he made an 11-yard gain around right end and in the second period he reeled off 22 on a fake from punt formation. Allison and Rieble hit the line for consistent small gains and Quarter Shaffer's forwards figured to a great extent in the team's ground gaining.

Perry and R. Shaffer, ends, played their customary stalwart game, their defensive tactics cutting down the invaders time after time, aided by Tackles Bough and Banks. The center trio of McKim, Larkins and Kinsey comprised the remainder of the Blue and White forward wall that checked the New Philly rushes.

First Quarter.

The East Liverpool second team took the field and lined up for the kickoff. Kirkham booted the ball to Right Tackle Gilgen who fumbled and Todd recovered on the New Philadelphia 40 yard line. Unable to gain, Kirkham kicked, the visitors taking possession on their 15. Smith, punting for New Philly, returned the boot to midfield. McVey lost five yards at tackle. Kirkham fumbled and recovered back of the line of scrimmage. East Liverpool was penalized five yards for offside play. Kirkham punted to New Philly's 35 yard line where the receiver took it on a fair catch. Enold made four at left tackle. Cale was stopped at center, Enold broke through for a 22 yard gain, being brought down by Heddleston. It was the first real scoring threat of the game. Cale made three at right tackle and Ladrich four at right guard. Boone's second team was replaced by the regulars. Ladrich was stopped at right guard and Winspear on the fourth down, missed a try for a drop kick. The ball came back to the 20 in possession of the Blue and White.

English reeled off 11 yards around right end Allison failed to gain at tackle. Banks got off a long punt which rolled to the New Philly 32 yard line before the defense captured it. Smith returned the punt, the ball going out of bounds on the East Liverpool 20 yard mark. The locals were assessed a five yard offside penalty. Banks booted to the 35 yard line and Cale, taking the punt, ran it back to the 25, being toppled, out of bounds, by English. Cale made five on a criss cross around left end and Winspear added four at right tackle. Ladrich advanced the ball five more yards from fake kick formation. On the next play he fumbled but recovered, losing a couple of yards. Larkins stopped Cale in his tracks on the next play. The first forward pass of the game was knocked down. Winspear's next ariel attempt went wild and the locals took the ball in the shadows of their own goal posts. Banks punted to the E. L. 38 and R. Shaffer downed the runner in his tracks. Cale lost two at left tackle. A pass at left end netted seven yards

Second Quarter.

Enold lost a yard at right end. A drop kick, from the 30 yard line, went far from its mark. English was stopped at right guard for no gain. On the next play he stepped off 22 yards from punt formation. Rieble hit a stone wall at right tackle. Banks booted out of bounds on the 20. Smith immediately returned the kick, Rieble being downed on E. Liverpool's 40. Riebel failed to gain at left end. Banks booted to New Philly's 35 yard line where the runner was stopped. Cale made a yard at left tackle. Ladrich lost a yard on a criss cross play and then kicked, Riebel being stopped on East Liverpool's 30. English hit right tackle for three yards. Shaffer was stopped at center. Banks punted to New Philly's 35 and Cale ran it back to the 48 where McKim brought him down. Enold essayed a long run around right end but his efforts to gain were fruitless. A pass was knocked down. Ladrich was stopped at left tackle. Time was taken out while officials discussed the question raised by Coach Boone as to whether the lines should have been moved, the locals contending that the first down had not been made. Play, however, was resumed with no change in the poles, the visitors failing to profit by the error, if any. The entire right side of the E. L. line swarmed in on an attempted punt and the Blue and White recovered on New Philly's 41. Riebel made a couple at right tackle. A pass to Shaffer was grounded, falling short. Another pass was knocked down. English kicked to the New Philly eight yard line and the runner was dropped almost in his tracks. Smith punted to English on the 40 and he made five yards. Allison lost a yard at right tackle. Shaffer got a nice pass and put the ball o nthe 13. English's try at a drop kick went wide. English caught Smith's punt and made 10 yards to the New Philly 40. Perry pulled down a pass for 11 yards. Two more passes were knocked down and the half ended.

English kicked and Enold was stopped on his 30 after a short run. Cale hit right tackle for a yard. Smith kicked and Rieble was downed on his 30. English went through center for a yard. Rieble picked up a yard at left guard, and English punted to Enold, who was stopped by R. Shaffer on his 38. Cale advanced a yard at right tackle, and Enold added four at right guard. Ladrich failed to gain at left end and Smith kicked to English on the 28. English made one at left tackle. English lost two yards on a criss-cross play when the line failed to hold. English kicked out of bounds on New Philly's 45. Ladrich made four at right end. Rieble knocked down a long pass. Smith kicked and English took the ball on his 25. English failed to gain at right end. Rieble made one at left tackle. English's punt went awry and soared out of bounds, the kick netting little more than 15 yards. Enold was thrown for a two-yard loss at right tackle. Cale lost six more on a criss-cross, the playing being fairly smothered. A long pass was grounded. Smith kicked to English, who was downed on his 12-yard line. Banks kicked out to the 25. Cale made a scant yard at left end and Enold added another at center. A pass was grounded and Smith essayed a drop kick, the pigskin going wide of its mark.

Fourth Quarter.

The ball went into play on East Liverpool's 20. English was stopped at center. Rieble failed to gain at left end. New Philly blocked English's kick and the visitors recovered on the East Liverpool 15 yard line. A pass was grounded over the goal line and the ball went into play on East Liverpool's 20. English made a scant yard at right end. R. Shaffer plucked a pass from the air and took it to the 36. Another pass was grounded. Perry lost the next aerial attempt. The visitors intercepted a pass on East Liverpool's 45. Mathias, quarterback, substituting for Winspear heaved a long pass to Smith down the side of the field and the latter raced over the goal line for the first touchdown. Cale added another point with a drop kick.

The visitors booted to Shaffer on the 32, Shaffer bringing down a pass, went to the 48. The visitors intercepted the next heave and took the ball back to the 38. Enold failed to gain at right tackle. Cale made no gain at right end. Smith kicked and English was downed on his 29. For alleged unnecessary roughness, East Liverpool was penalized 25 yards, putting the pigskin within four yards of the last chalk mark. Attempting to surprise the opposition, the locals essayed a pass. It was intercepted by Haney who plunged a few yards to drop over the goal line for another touchdown. Cale missed his kick.

The visitors kicked, English being stopped on his 20. New Philly intercepted a pass and brought up on the 52. Cale was stopped at left tackle. Maloney, substituing for Ladrich, made four at left guard. Mathias tossed a pass to Cale in the corner of the field and the latter stepped a few yards over the line for the third touchdown. Cale dropkicked for the extra point.

Coach Boone sent in a number of substitutes and a forward passing attack was launched with only a minute or so to play. Several passes were successful, but the clash ended when the visitors intercepted the final fling on their eight yard mark.

Tagging The Bases

The Phils rose from last place, by virtue of being rained out, and the Cubs flopped into the opening created. The programs wound up the major league seasons. Hornsby's Cardinals, without the aid of their manager and the champion hitter and home run slugger of the season, were responsible for the Cubs final degredation.

The Pirates hit Goodwin hard and beat the Reds, 4 to 2, in the opener, but Peter Donahue all but shut them out in the second game, 4 to 1.

Mostil stole his forty second base of the season as the White Sox closed the season with a fine, old-fashioned victory over the Indians, 10 to 8.

HEILMAN BEATS OUT SPEAKER

Slaps Out Six Hits in Nine Times at Bat.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—By a sensational spurt in the final double header with the Browns, Harry Heilman slipped out six hits in nine tries and regained the American league batting crown last year because of trouble with his eyes. He passed Tris Speaker and finished on top with .393, or 47 points above his last years mark.

Rogers Hornsby, although not active in the last games of the season, finished far in the lead in the National league, making his sixth consecutive batting championship, thus breaking his own worlds record. His mark of .403 placed him in the trio finishing above .400 for three seasons, Ty Cobb and Jesse Burkett being the others.

For the second time within two weeks, the Homer Laughlin Soccer club was held to a tie in Pittsburgh Press league competition, when the locals staged a 3-3 game with the Glencoe Thistles on Saturday afternoon at Grove City, Pa.

The locals got off to a good start, scoring in the first minute of play with Cannie kicking goal. Both teams played fast football during the 10-minute interval following, with Eaton booting the first goal in for the Thistles.

Laughlin a short time later was awarded a penalty kick, but Mortenson's try went high over the goal. Eaton again went into action and his goal gave the home eleven a lead. Ferguson and Cannie subsequently launched a terrific attack on the Thistles' goal, but the home goal tender prevented scoring.

At this point the Laughlins were given another penalty kick and Plant made it good, evening the count at two apiece. The half ended a few minutes after McLidlan scored the third goal for the Thistles.

At the outset of the second half Plant missed a penalty kick. The Laughlins subsequently kept the play largely in the Thistles' home territory. The Laughlin forward wall was kicked accurately, but Harris, goal keeper, played a great game and scoring was at a premium. Cannie, following a fine drive, shot in the third goal for the Laughlin eleven and the count again was knotted. Beech made two good saves from corner kicks.

Foster played his first game of the season for Laughlin and made a favorable impression at halfback.

The lineup:

Laughlin.		Glencoe Thistles.
Beech	C.	Harries
Bain	R.B.	Crane

Roberts	R.H.	Templeton

A bone in Hunt's left leg was broken during the Ohio State-Ohio Wesleyan game Saturday. It is not expected that Hunt will be able to play again this season.

IF VETERAN IS BEATEN IN OPENER, BUCS WILL WIN, EXPERTS CONTEND

Pittsburgh Odds, in Such an Event Would Probably Soar to 8 to 5, But Even Money if he Wins; Baseball History Supports Contention That Club Which Loses First One, Usually Drops the Series; Exceptions are Few.

By Davis J. Walsh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 5.—Actuated by that spirit of strict impartiality peculiar to home towns about to indulge in one end of a world series, the local intelligentsia today came out on its it flat feet with a prediction of victory for the Pirates in the opening game. The argument has its points and so has a barbed wire fence.

However, there can be no evasion of the fact that if Pittsburgh can toss Walter Johnson behind the line of scrimmage at the outset, then Washington's immediate future will be that of the gent with a collapsible floor at his feet and a rope for a neck-tie. Johnson is the key-man of the series and on Wednesday he will unlock the door to the secret within.

The fact furnishes the answer to the pre-series situation that has made the Pirates rather unnatural favorites at odds of 6 to 5. The gamblers wanted to get their money down on the club that seems to be the majority's favorite before the odds went beyond all reason. If the Pirates beat Johnson in the opener, there will be plenty of Pittsburgh money going about with hat in hand and pleading for a home. Under such conditions, it would surprise no one if the odds soared to 8 to 5, since Johnson probably would have to turn in two victories for the Senators to win the series and he might not get a chance to pitch two more games before it was all over.

However, if Johnson wins the opener the Senators immediately would go to even money or better and the gamblers would proceed to lay off their bets at the prevailing odds, insuring them against loss. Your gambler, of course, is so called because he is a man who never gambles. He merely bets on both clubs at the proper odds and pockets a winning no matter what happens.

In any case, the club that takes the first one on the chin usually has been the loser of a world sereies, therefore, Washington can take the Pittsburgh prediction with ample justification, to wit: If Johnson beats the Pirates in the opener, the Senators will be as good as in.

Baseball history supports this contention. In the 21 years the modern world series has been played since 1903, the club that won the opening game, won the series in no less than 15 occasions, the exceptions were furnished by Pittsburgh in 1903, the Giants in 1922, the Phillies in 1915, the Yankees in 1921, the Giants in 1923 and the same outfit against the Senators last year.

However, the writer will venture this much: If the Pirates drop the first game, their cause will not be as desperate as would be that of the Senators if they lose behind Johnson. He must be right or the thing is off.

Of course, he wasn't right last year and still the Senators won. But it isn't in the book that it can be done two years straight and besides, the Giants had a two-man pitching staff and the Pirates haven't.

Johnson and Meadows To Start First Clash

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—The opening of the world's series here next Wednesday will see veteran pitted against veteran, so far as the pitching is concerned.

It was announced unofficialy at Forbes Field today that Lee Meadows, be-spectacled hurler, has been selected by Manager McKechnie to oppose Walter Johnson in the opening game.

Also it was learned that Vic Aldridge, who came here in the deal with the Chicago Cubs last winter, will start the second game for the Pirates, with Ray Kremer being held ready for the third contest.

TWO 'MACS' STAR WITH MARSHALL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 5—Two ex-captains, both tackles, of East Liverpool, Ohio, high school, are making a good showing on the Marshall college varasity squad this season. Lee McKeever, leader of the high school eleven in 1922, played at right tackle, while his room mate, Don McBane, served as his understudy for the position. In 1924 McBane was chosen captain of the outfit.

The two Macs attended Bethany last year, playing the two tackles on the Bethany freshman football team. They made a fine record there, and cast their gridiron fortunes with Coach "Trusty" Tallman's green and white cohorts for the 1925 season.

The pair have been running at the two tackle positions on the second team, and show promise of crowding the varsity men, Peterson and Meredith. Both played in almost half of the opening game last Saturday.

Autoist Is Killed While Saving Bulldog From Bee

Morristown, N. J.—Frank Reigart, sixty-one years old, of 172 Roseville avenue, Newark, president of the Electrical Alloy company of Morristown, was killed near here when a car in which he was driving with a Japanese servant and a bulldog crashed into a telegraph pole between Whippany and Hanover.

Mr. Reigart and the Japanese, Santoro Hatanaka, who was in the rear seat, each saw a bee alight on the bulldog. Both leaned over to brush it off. Mr. Reigart released his hold for a moment on the wheel and the car hit the pole. Some glass from the windshield penetrated his skull and when physicians arrived ten minutes later he was dead. The Japanese and the dog were unhurt.

Mr. Reigart was unmarried.

Cotton Substitute

Reutlingen, Germany.—Cutting of cotton imports into Germany by half may result from a new method of weaving cloth with hemp, invented by the German textile expert, Doctor Gminder. The hemp, it is expected, will replace in part the cotton formerly used in the cloth. There are about 5,000,000 acres of moorland in Germany adapted to the raising of hemp.

LEGAL NOTICE

To the Electors of East Liverpool City School District.

Notice is hereby given that the proposition to levy an additional tax, for school purposes, over and above the maximum authorized under Sections 5649-2, 5649-3A and 5649-3C General Code of Ohio and all limitations of law, be submitted to the electors of the said East Liverpool city School District at the regular election, November 3, 1925.

Said extra tax levy is declared by the Board of Education of the said East Liverpool City school district to be necessary, because by the exercise of all authority under the limitations of law, the maximum amount that can be levied for school purposes will be insufficient to meet the current expenses of the schools of said school district and it is expedient to levy additional taxes by virtue of Section 5649-4, as amended by House Bill 58, as passed by the General Assembly of Ohio and filed with the Secretary of State, April 21, 1925.

The question to be decided is whether or not a levy of not to exceed 3 mills, additional to that authorized under limitations of law, shall be made for school purposes for a period not to exceed 5 years.

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Edgar Doe Norris

CHAPTER 60.

The voices belonged to Shorty Smith and Louie the Rat, returning from their oasis.

"Hell, this watin' round is gettin' on me nevrves," Shorty exclaimed, throwing himself on the ground again and yawning.

"Either him or some cops," Shorty laughed.

The other man tried to smile, but gave it up, when Shorty grinned and said: "You know kidnapin' draws you a life sentence."

"I wisht we had some noospapers so we could see what theyse sayin' 'bout it."

"Plenty," Shorty laughed maliciously. He moved over so that he could rest against a tree. "I fell like takin' a nap. Wake me up in 'bout 'n hour.

"Louie got up restlessly, uneasy now as a result of his companion's humor, and began walking a round nervously. Eventually his path took him by the the window near where Amoura Ainsly stood straining her eyes through the crevices of the boards, anious for another sight of the strange man who had summoned her to the window. When she heard Louie's step she thought it was the stranger returning, and strained her eyes the more for a glimpse of him. Disappointed by the hight of one of her captors, she shivered.

"I'm cold," she said plaintively.

Louie stopped and regarded her eyes, undecided what to do. In a moment he moved on around the house. His nerves more settled now, he slid down by the tree where Shorty Smith was sleeping, unaware that he was being closely watched by a figure lying prone on the ground around the corner of the cottage. Ten minutes later he was nodding. The figure went back to the window.

"Sppist!" He had to summon Amoura again.

"Who it it?" she asked, as excited as ever, when she got to the window. Then she saw his eyes.

"You don't know me," the voice said.

"Have you come to rescue me?" she asked, deeply agitated by a spark of joy.

"Perhaps—do you need rescuing?"

The remark put her in a rage. He was making fun of her! She could see the youth now, an athletic figure, stalwart and suggestive of aggressiveness. Was this another member of the band? "I'm Amoura Ainsley, and I've been kidnaped," she choked.

The stranger emitted a low whistle! "So this is what Red Mike is up to." He crept to the edge of the house for another glimpse of the sleeping figures, then back to the window. "Wait a minute." Swiftly he circled the house, inspecting each window and door. At the rear was a low porch, over which was a small window. Quickly and skilfully he swung himself up on this, tried the window, pushed it up with some effort, and climbed in. Darkness was all about him. This, no doubt, was the attic. Closing the window, he struck a match and looked around. The sight of some old trunks black with soot, and an assortment of trash greeted him. By walking around carefully, and inspecting the floor with the few remaining matches, he found what was obviously the door to the attic. It gave way with a creak. He drew back and for a minute awaited developments. He could hear no sound, so he let himself down into a stairway which led from the lower to the upper floor of the cottage.

Two minutes later with the skeleton key he noiselessly opened the door to the room in which Amoura Ainsley was confined. She drew back as she saw him enter. He put a finger over his mouth as a sign of silence.

"Who are you?"

He did not answed as he stepped forward, and she retreated to the window. "I'll scream," she threatened.

"That would be foolish. Shh! I may be able to get you out of here." He was thinking at the moment of the $100,000 ransom mentioned in the newspaper stories of the kidnaping. Quickly he looked around the room, then found aposition in which he could crouch down without being seen from the window. "Come over here and put your back to the window, then we can talk.

Something in the young man's eyes caused her to blieve in him and obey.

"How many of them are there?" he asked first.

"I guess that's all," he sid, as if talking to himself.

"Who are you?" she asked again, more insistently than ever.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said after a moment. "I'm what the newspapers call a rum runner. I'm in this neck of the woods on—business. I've been noticing the men around this house, and I wondered what ed Mike was up to. Being curious, I investigated. And here I a m."

"Oh, please, can't you get me out of here? It—it'll be worth anything you ask.

Annoyed by his making light of what was to her a terrible situation, she asked: "How do YOU know?"

"It's the sensation of the hours," he remarked.

"My father—have you read anything about him?" she asked nervously.

"Yes. He's got so many special cops trailing you that they're falling over each other, and making it easy for Red Mike to hide you where he pleases."

"Oh, please, sir!" she pleaded, "con't you get me out of here?"

"I don't know. I'm going to try.' Her eyes l ightened. "But not now. Tonight. Try to keep awake. And whatever you do don't get excited and scream at whatever you see."

Her heart was beating furiously. She could hardly speak. Fredom from this horrible nightmare dawned!

"Well, I'd better be going."

"Take me with ou now, PLEASE!"

"So, don't you understand! It's bread daylight outside. We couldn't get away without somebody seing us."

She sat down despondently.

With a last glance at her, he closed the door and relocked it and went out the way he had come, after carefully wiping up the sooty marks of his feet on the stairway with his handkerchief.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflammed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creasote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is generally satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creo mulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)
